Underwood Receives One and Senator Simmons
Given Another

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Surrounded by the leaders of a united Democracy, President Wilson signed the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill at 9:09 o'clock tonight at the White House. Simultaneously telegrams were sent to customs collectors throughout the country by the treasury department, putting into actual operation the first Democratic tariff revision since 1894.

A large group of leading members of the cabinet and friends encircled the president as he smilingly sat down and slowly affixed his signature with two gold pens. He presented to Representative Underwood the pen that he had struck the word "Whereas," with, and the one which had completed his name to Senator Simmons.

In impressive silence the President delivered in easy natural tones an extemporaneous speech that brought prolonged applause.

"Gentlemen, I feel peculiarly pleased," the President said, "in what I have just done by taking part in the completion of a great piece of business. It is a pleasure which is very hard to express in words, which are inadequate to express the feeling; because the feeling I have is that we have done the rank and file of the people of this country a great service."

"It is hard to speak of these things without seeming to go off into canting eloquence but that is not my feeling. It is one very profound, a feeling of profound gratitude that with the splendid men who have carried this thing through, with studious attention and doing justice all around, I should have had a part in serving the people of this country. I have been striving to serve them ever since I can remember."

"I have seen the result of something like this at heart ever since I was a boy, and I know men standing around me who can say the same thing—who have been willing to see things done which it was necessary to do in order that the country might be better in the United States."

SOLEMN MOMENT

"And so it is a solemn moment that brings such a business to a conclusion and I hope I will not be thought to be denouncing too much of myself or my colleagues when I say that this treat as it is, is the accomplishment of only half the journey."

"We have set the business of this country free from those conditions which have made it so much more possible but in a sense easy and natural, but there is no way taking away the conditions of monopoly if we do not take away also the power to create monopoly, and that is a financial rather than a merely commercial and economic power."

"The power to control and guide and direct the credits of the country is the power to say who shall and who shall not build up the industries of the country, including the industries that shall be built and in which direction they shall not be built. We are now about to take the second step, which will be the final step in setting the business of this country free. That is, we shall do in the currency bill, which the house has passed, and which I have the utmost confidence the Senate will pass much sooner than some pessimistic individuals believe. The question, now, that this piece of work is done, will arise all over the country. For what do we wait? Why should we wait to crown ourselves with consummate honor? Are we so self denying that we do not wish to complete our success?"

was quoting the other day to some of my colleagues in the Senate those lines from Shakespeare's Henry V which always appealed to me: 'If he be a sin to cover honor, then am I the most offending sin alive; and I am happy to say that I do not cover it for myself alone; I cover it with equal armor for the men who are associated with me and the honor is going to come from them. I am their associate. I can only complete the work which they do. I can only counsel when they ask for my counsel. I can come in only when the last stages of the business are reached. And I love this honor for them quite as much as I love it for myself; and I love for the great party of which I am a member; because that party is not honorable unless it redounds its name and serves the people of the United States."

"So I feel tonight like a man who is judging happily in the inn which lies half way along the journey and that in the morning with a fresh impulse we shall go the rest of the journey and sleep at the journey's end like men with a quiet conscience, knowing that we have served our fellow men and have thereby tried to serve God."

UNUSUAL SPECTACLE

It was an unusual spectacle which attended the signing of a legislative reform that had been seven months in Congress and embraced a tariff re-

Resume of New Tariff Law; Some of Principal Provisions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—President Wilson's signing of the Underwood-Simmons bill brings into effect one of the most far-reaching revisions of tariff rates and revenue laws enacted for many years.

A new income tax, applying directly to the incomes of citizens; the abolition of all tariff on scores of items of immense importance to American industry and American consumers; and a heavy reduction of tariff rates on most of the articles in general use in this country are its chief features.

While certain portions of the new law do not take effect at once, most of its provisions and almost all the direct tariff reductions, do.

At every port collectors of customs, appraisers of merchandise and hundreds of other employees of the Treasury Department will plunge at once into the task of collecting the nation's revenue on a new basis, and will handle a host of new classifications and new provisions of law to complicate their activities.

The federal government has been spending nearly a billion dollars a year and the new tariff law will raise less than one-third of that sum. Recent estimates by tariff experts in Congress predict that the rates will raise $249,000,000 a year; and that the income tax will raise $100,000,000. The remainder of the government's great income is made up principally of internal revenue taxes and postal receipts.

The income tax probably will bring the new tariff law most forcibly to the attention of citizens. President Wilson and Democratic leaders in Congress believe, however, that the reduction of duties on clothing, foodstuffs and other necessities of life, and the complete removal of the duty from many life articles, will eventually bring a reduction in the "cost of living" without affecting the business prosperity.

SUMMARY OF NEW LAW
A brief summary of the new tariff law as prepared for the Senate follows:

Average percentage of tariff rates as compared to the value of all imported merchandise: Old law, 37 per cent; new law, 27 per cent.

Value of annual imports added to the free list, $147,000,000.

Estimated revenue from all import rates: Old law, $66,900,000; new law, $28,000,000.

Estimated revenue from corporation and income taxes: Old law, $27,000,000; new law, $100,000,000.

Altogether, consumers in the United States probably will receive from abroad free of all tariff, more than $1,000,000,000 worth of merchandise during the next year. During 1912 the amount of free imports was more than $350,000,000 and when the tariff is entirely removed from wool, sugar, iron ore and cheap iron, and other important items, the total is expected to increase notably. Under the old law more than 52 per cent of all goods brought to the United States from all parts of the world paid no tariff, and that proportion will be increased by the new law.

The free wool provision of the new law takes effect December 1, 1913; the free sugar provision May 1, 1914; the tax on trades in "foster futures" September 1, 1914.

The new tariff law, passed four years after President Taft signed the existing Payne-Aldrich law, is the result of more than nine months of work in Congress. Hearings were started January 8, by the House Ways and Means Committee. Chairman Underwood introduced the tariff bill April 7, immediately after President Wilson had convened the new Congress. It passed the House May 3 and the Senate September 3.

IMPORTANT FEATURES

In the opinion of its makers, the Democratic leaders of Congress, the most important features of the new tariff are:

"A reduction of nearly one-half in the average tariff on foodstuffs and farm products.

The placing of raw wool on the free list, and a reduction of nearly two-thirds in the tariff on woolen clothing, especially of the cheaper grades.

A reduction of one-third (average) on cotton clothing.

Reduction of the sugar tariff and its ultimate abolishment in 1916.

A reduction of one-third (average) in the tariff on earthenware and glassware.

Abolishment of all tariff on many meats, fish, dairy products, flour, potatoes, coal, iron ore, lumber and many classes of farm and office machinery.

General tariff reduction on all important articles in general use.

Throughout the long fight over the bill, the Republican attack on the measure was so low as to threaten destruction of American industries, through the competition of foreign manufacturers. The Democratic supporters of the new law have insisted that, except in those cases where public welfare demanded radical changes, the tariff has been reduced only to a point where it will "stimulate competition," without turning American markets over to foreigners.

A great amount of work will fall upon the Treasury Department, it is expected, in working out the details of the new income tax and the methods of collecting the direct taxes from individual citizens of the United States. The new law has imposed a new duty on the income of their income, remains the same, and becomes part of the general income tax law. A staff of special deputies, collectors and agents will be employed to organize and conduct the work of income tax collection.

vision of a most far-reaching character.

Happy and jubilant, the invited guests came to the executive office.

They chatted and feasted with the president in an interim while waiting for the full group to appear. When the members of the Senate finance committee and House ways and means committee finally arrived, Vice President Marshall, Clerk of the Senate, then took charge of the bill and conveyed it to the White House. The relief of both houses at the end of the long fight was apparent. Scores of members of the Senate and House had left the city yesterday and there was less than a quorum present in the House when the final vote was taken on the bill. Only extraordinary efforts of Senate leaders kept enough senators in town to enable that body to work today upon the urgent deficiency bill appropriation.

Germany First to Act
Germany will be the first nation to take advantage of the new tariff law. The new tariff act which provides for the negotiation of reciprocity arrangements embodying mutual concessions in customs taxes. The chancellor of the German empire, acting in the absence of Ambassador Bernstorff, has been in communication with the State Department and it is expected a rough outline draft of such an arrangement will be ready for consideration soon. As it emerged from conference this section no longer contains the retaliatory provisions inserted in the Senate and is now more than an authorization to the executive to "negotiate trade agreements with foreign nations wherein mutual concessions are made looking toward freer trade returns and freer commerce."

Invited by the President to witness the signing of the measure were Chairman Underwood and members of the ways and means committee; Chairman Simmons and members of the finance committee; Vice-President Marshall; Secretary Bryan; Secretary McAdoo; and members of the cabinet and newspaper correspondents.

President Wilson looked forward with eagerness to the moment when the bill would become law. The fruit of many months of endeavor to enact tariff reform in accordance with the declaration of the party platform, would be placed on his desk. Having followed every detail of the action in conference and since that time in the Senate and House, he was thoroughly familiar with the bill and ready to affix the signature which would transform it into law.

REVISING SCHEDULES
Treasury officials today began the task of redrafting the regulations for the enforcement of the new tariff law. While the law goes into effect tomorrow, collectors of customs will continue to assess the duties under the old Payne-Aldrich act, withholding final liquidation of each entry until receipt of from its compromise cotton futures

STEAMER ASHORE; NO LIVES LOST

Passengers Take to Life

Boats, Other Vessels

Cape to Aid

SEATTLE, Oct. 3.—The steamship Spokane, owned by the Pacific Coast Steamship company, is ashore fifteen miles north of Cape Lazo, B. C. The passengers and crew took to the life boats and are being picked up by the steamship La Touche. The steamship Albi is standing by. It is believed there has been no loss of life.

Captain E. L. McNabb, superintendent of the Spokane, received a message late tonight from Captain C. H. White of the wrecked steamer Spokane saying that all passengers were saved. They were transferred, says the message from the Spokane to the steamer La Touche and will be brought directly to Seattle.

"SINKING FAST"

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 3.—"Sinking fast," push help," was the wireless message picked up tonight by stations here and at Corvallis from the steamer Spokane. The ship's position as given as off Cape Lazo, B. C. The steamer La Touche answered the call and was taking off passengers. The steamer Dolphin was reported as rushing to the Spokane's aid.

The steamer La Touche of the Alaska Steamship company was one of the first vessels to answer and at 10:15 began taking off passengers.

"Taking water fast," said all assistance possible," was one of the flashes received almost immediately after the first distress call which read "Steamer Spokane, 15 miles north Cape Lazo, wants assistance." The commander signed.

The steamer Dolphin and the steamer Albi answered. The steamer Cape Lazo is on Vancouver Island between Departure Bay and Seymour Narrows, in the Gulf of Georgia, about one hundred miles north of Vancouver.

The Spokane has been used mostly for excursion purposes during the summer season.

On June 23, 1911, the Spokane struck a rock in Seymour Narrows, B. C. on the inside passage and narrowly missed foundering with all on board. The vessel was hunched and afterward floated. Two passengers were drowned.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—The steamer Spokane belongs to the Pacific Coast Steamship company. She is a steel vessel of 23 tons and was built by the Union Iron Works, San Francisco in 1901.

Colonel Roosevelt predicted that the Progressive party would never go back, and he declared:

"I want our opponents that the fight is not over. I will never abandon the principles to which we Progressives have pledged ourselves, and I will never abandon the men and women who have worked with me for these principles. They and I stand with our faces toward the morning; we will never be sundered from one another; and we will never yield the ground we have taken or flinch from the fight in which we are pledged."

Colonel Roosevelt in the course of his address lauded the candidates of his party in various states, mentioning Judge Learned Hand and Judge Seabury, nominees for chief justice and assistant justice of the Court of Appeals in New York; Everett C. Kirby, for governor in New Jersey; Charles Sumner Bird, for governor of Massachusetts; and the party's nominees for municipal officers in New York and Louisville, as well as the Progressive party candidates for Congress in Maryland, West Virginia and elsewhere.

There are now seventy-five mounted men in Keweenaw and General Abbie believes that this force will be ample. He said he had not asked the governor for more troops.

Declares He Will Never

RECEIVES OVATION

"Shall Enter Undaunted,

As National Party, On

Another Campaign"

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Theodore Roosevelt bade his friends farewell tonight at a dinner given in his honor by the Progressive National Service and the Progressive Service of the State of New York. Addressing some 2,000 men and women who gathered at the New York Hotel Garden, the Colonel made a speech in which he again solemnly sought to put a question on published reports that he intended to return to the Republican party.

"I want our opponents that the fight is not over," he said, his voice breaking in his earnestness. "I will never abandon the principles to which we Progressives have pledged ourselves."

Waving bandana handkerchiefs and napkins, the diners jumped to their feet and cheered. Only once during the evening did Mr. Roosevelt receive a general ovation. Toward the close of the address of Clifford Pinchot, the teamster, there were cries of "We Want Teddy." Raymond Robbins, head of the Progressive National Service, hailed across the guest table.

Yes, we want him—we want him as President of the United States. Then the crowd let loose.

Mrs. Roosevelt was a witness of the tribute.

Progressive leaders, men and women, including former United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge, Senator John A. Bristow and other Progressive leaders, were present.

Colonel Roosevelt told the Progressives his best endeavors would be extended upon his return toward the rebuilding of the party. The party is solid, he declared, and he added that it was the firm determination of the rank and file as well as the leaders to preserve its political unity, its solidarity and integrity. Speaking of the work he had mapped out for himself on his return, Colonel Roosevelt said:

"We shall enter undaunted as a national party on another national campaign."

Colonel said he would never rest content until every state principle enunciated by the Progressive party is put into practical operation by the nation.

Colonel Roosevelt began his speech by saying that he wanted to take this means of saying a word to all men and women of the Progressive party. All his life, he said, he had been engaged in work that culminated in the last eighteen months, and of all his political life, it was the last eighteen months to which he looked back with most satisfaction. This was his commitment to the men and women who have worked with him in the organization and first campaign of the party which he termed a movement for "social and industrial justice to be achieved in a spirit of brotherly good will and of the broadest social consciousness."

He believed that all of us who have worked in this movement have gained thereby the inestimable advantage of a finer and higher outlook on life," he continued. "We have striven to make good every promise of the covenant with the people which our platform represents. There is no principle to which we have not striven to live up to in spirit and in letter alike. We have driven our principles home that each of the old parties in place after place have been obliged to pay at least lip loyalty to them."

Colonel Roosevelt predicted that the Progressive party would never go back, and he declared:

"I want our opponents that the fight is not over. I will never abandon the principles to which we Progressives have pledged ourselves, and I will never abandon the men and women who have worked with me for these principles. They and I stand with our faces toward the morning; we will never be sundered from one another; and we will never yield the ground we have taken or flinch from the fight in which we are pledged."

EVANGELISTS CAN "PICK UP CHANGE" BY LECTURES ALSO

FRESNO, Oct. 3.—Conference evangelists have a perfect right to "pick up a little extra change" by lecturing at chautauquas and filling other "outside" engagements. This was the sense of the Rock River conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, as expressed today, when a motion was made to limit activities of the evangelists to the duties expressed by the church. Bishop McDowell declared the motion out of order.

Is an evangelist doing just the right thing and is he showing just the right spirit when he hobbles only with richer classes, owns a big flashy automobile and in a general way conducts himself as though he were one of the elect?

The question arose during a sharp debate on the question of proper conduct for evangelists. Rev. J. C. Youker, Lake Bluff, complained that J. Honeywell, general evangelist, did not seem to care to go to less important churches.

Bishop McDowell laughingly said he believed if John Wesley were alive today he would own the biggest and finest car he could afford.

SEATTLE JUDGE PARDONS ALL WHO DEFIED ORDERS

HAS SUDDEN CHANGE

Adjourns Court After He

Has Given Pardons

to All Comers

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 3.—Superior Judge John E. Humphries, who opened proceedings in his court today by denouncing his brother judges, asserting they had been plotting against him, adjourned court this afternoon after dispensing pardons and remissions to all comers. His change of attitude came after he had been in consultation with one of the eight other superior judges who was delegated to impart to Judge Humphries the unfavorable opinion of his fellow judges on the frequent use of the writ of injunction and the lack of decorum in the courts.

The most remarkable feature of the day in court was the discharge of Dr. Herman P. Titus, Kate Sadler and Allard Price, the citation of whom in answer contempt charges because of speeches they made in City Hall park July 24 led to the "resolutions of defiance," whose signers have been on trial and a number of whom are in jail.

These three persons had been enjoined from speaking at City Hall park. Judge Humphries threatened them with severe penalties. The "resolutions of defiance" circulated immediately afterward warred Judge Humphries that if Titus, Mrs. Sadler and Price were punished, the signers would proceed to hold meetings on the forbidden square.

SOCIETY

Among the delightful pre-nuptial festivities in which Miss Hazel Cartwright, the fiancée of Theron Walker, is participating in the capital city, Sacramento will be the luncheon at which her mother will entertain a congenial group for the first time at the Senator Cartwright residence. The appointments are to be particularly attractive with corsage bouquets of Cecil Brouwer roses as place favors, the cards bearing the names of the luncheon guests to their designs suggestive of the coming wedding. Among those participating with the vivacious little bride to be are Miss Dorothea Burdick of this city, Miss Gertrude Noble of Visalia, and Mrs. Victor Eickhoff, (Margaretta Tidwell).

This afternoon, Miss Abbie Telfer, a former Fresno girl is to hostess a jolly little theater party of about eight guests, complimenting Miss Cartwright with a tea.

Mrs. H. W. Neely yesterday issued invitations to the active and associate members of the Wednesday Club, to celebrate President's Day on next Wednesday, at which in her capacity of chief officer of the club is to entertain. The invitations call for vacation experiences in rhyme, with each rhyme limited to eight lines. The club work for the year calls for such serious thought, that it is Mrs. Neely's idea to devote the first after vacation meeting one of nonsense, hence the call for Mother Goose lines.

Miss Ruth Moore leaves on Sunday for Los Angeles, where she will enter Huntington high for the winter term of study. As a sort of little farewell, a congenial group of close friends assembled at her home last night for an informal evening at which the entertainment included impromptu games and music. Refreshments were served late in the evening.

Miss Beissie Ralston was the hostess at a delightful little dancing-party last evening at her home on Blackstone avenue, entertaining a bevy of the younger high school set. The living rooms which were cleared for the Terpsichorean pleasures were tastefully decorated and punch refreshed the dancers during intermissions. Among those who participated in the evening's pleasures were Misses Hazel Cartwright, Mary Taylor, Ruth Willson, Helen Charrault, Camille Purdy, Ruth Avery, Beissie Ralston, Billie Hoven, Mesdames T. J. Wilson, Cecil Harris, Malcolm Crawford, Ned Wiley, James, John Malcolm, James Bonner, James Ralston, Alfred Rasmussen.

The Friday Club held a very enjoyable meeting yesterday afternoon, meeting with Mrs. W. M. McDaniel to enjoy President's Day, under the leadership of Mrs. S. M. Robbing, the executive officer. The club members responded to roll call with musical quotations. A reading of Browning's "Abt Vogler" by Mrs. W. M. McDaniel was greatly appreciated, after which Mr. Sanford Rich rendered several very beautiful piano numbers, two of the most enjoyable being "L'Allegretto Englouille" by Debussy, and a "Ragtime" by Bechmanhoff. At the close of the program, a social time was spent and dainty refreshments concluded a very pleasant afternoon.

The club will meet next week with Mrs. S. M. Robbing, at her home, 169 Yosemite, with Mrs. W. P. Miller as leader.

The Chit Slinga Orchestra of the First Baptist church will give a musical service on Sunday morning during the hours of Sunday school, for which an excellent program is in the course of preparation.

Mrs. D. B. Cutbirth and daughter, Miss Vivian of Fowler, are spending a few days in Fresno with friends while enjoying the excitement of "Fair Week."

During the last ten days a steadily increasing interest has been manifested in black Chantilly laces, according to the Dry Goods Economist.

The liberal use of black Chantilly laces was a feature of several of the model gowns from leading Paris makers recently displayed by houses catering to the dressmaking trade. High-class waist manufacturers are also employing black Chantilly to a considerable extent over white or flesh net.

Eccentric designs and meshes have the call in light novelty lace. This tendency is particularly marked in high-class styles, which easily retain first place in the market.

Plain nets continue in enormous demand, for trilling, drapery, tunic and foundation purposes. Colored shadow nets and laces are improving as the season advances. They are being used chiefly for blouses.

Pleating laces and nets continue in good movement.

COMMERCIALISM IS ELIMINATED FROM THE STATE BUILDING

Exposition Managers Will Not Reserve Main Aisle Space for Concessions

The counties in the various valley and district associations that as such will make typical and grouped exhibits at the San Francisco World's Fair in 1915 have come out victorious in their demand that the aspect of commercialism shall be eliminated in connection with the show to be made in the California state building. Advice have come that the exposition management has receded from the stand previously maintained by it, and on the basis of the modified conditions agree upon a new form of space contract has been ordered drawn to be signed up at an early day.

One main contention by the San Joaquin Valley Counties' Association and the Sacramento Valley Counties' Association was a protest against the reservation by the exposition management of the space in the main aisles for concessions in the California building to be occupied by the associated counties. This demand was finally conceded at the conference had on last Monday as to the aisles, or any unoccupied space in the California building without the consent of the counties.

The counties demanded other concessions which were duly considered, and all were practically granted after a three days' conference, save the one regarding the lease of the aisles by the management. J. A. Filcher of the Sacramento Valley Association, with whom the San Joaquin Valley Association joined forces, was insistent, however, and a further conference was had with the result stated on Monday last. Among the other granted concessions were those restricting the management to maintain insurance on the exhibit building during the construction and exposition periods, also that the counties should be accorded the allotted space for which they are paying without any reduction in space for any reason hereafter.

Mr. Filcher represented the associations at the two conferences, and made a determined opposition against the proposition of reserving the aisles for concession for the financial benefit of the management, arguing that it would be a most undignified feature, cheapening the entire California show by giving it a bazaar-like effect and placing the state in the light of trying to grasp "from the visitors by meeting them with importunities to buy something instead of a cordial invitation to inspect, produce and thereby become acquainted with the resources of the state.

"It would have reduced the whole show to the basis of commercialism, and to my mind should have never been thought of, much less tolerated," said Mr. Filcher in his letter of advice to the successful outcome of the conferences.

It was the San Joaquin Valley Association that first took up these demands, and securing the cooperation of the Sacramento association, forced on the agitation to the successful issue.

PLANT JUICE HAS TONED UP SYSTEM

Said This Well-Known San Jose Citizen Who Has Personally Tested Plant Juice

Mr. James Ferri of San Jose says he has tried Plant Juice, the tonic that is causing so much interest all over California, and thinks it is everything that is claimed for it. Every one in that city knows Ferri and his fruit wagon. This is what he said:

"I have suffered a long time with torpid liver, loss of appetite and general debility. I did not relish my food and what I did eat seemed to disagree with me. I felt tired and dragged out all the time and had no energy to attend to business. Since I began taking Plant Juice I have felt like a different person. I have a good appetite and really enjoy my meals, my liver is acting fine and I feel toned up all over."

Plant Juice has put hundreds of California people on the road to health in the past few weeks. Since its introduction on the Coast, Plant Juice has won thousands of friends and supporters because it really makes good all its promises. Plant Juice is a vegetable tonic, made from the medicinal plants of the earth combined with the greatest skill and care of modern science. It cleanses the liver, tones the entire system and removes all poisons from the blood. If you suffer from indigestion, torpid liver, constipation, no appetite, gas, bloating, foul breath, coated tongue, a heavy, stupid feeling after eating, pain in the back or joints, headaches, dizzy spells, if you sleep badly and wake up tired and fagged-out with a puffy look about the eyes and soreness of the muscles, with no energy or ambition, then try a bottle of Plant Juice. You will be surprised at the quick way it will put you on your feet. Sold by the San Joaquin Drug Company's store.

Pimples Source of Great Danger

May be Means of Absorbing Disease Germs in Most Unexpected Manner.

Make Your Blood Pure and Lustrous With S. S. S.

In thousands of instances the most virulent types of blood troubles have been the result of common pimples, and disease germs in public places, and the apparently insignificant pimple has been the cause. It spreads with astonishing rapidity, often infecting the entire system in a few days.

It is fortunate, however, that there is a remedy to cope quickly and thoroughly with such a condition, and thanks to the energy of its producers the famous S. S. S. may now be had at most any drug store in the United States.

This preparation stands alone as a blood purifier. It is a somewhat revolutionary in its composition, since it accomplishes all that was ever claimed for mercury, iodides, arsenic, and other destructive medicinal drugs, and yet it is absolutely a purely vegetable product. It contains one ingredient which serves the active purpose of stimulating each tiny cellular part of the tissues to the healthy and judicious selection of its own essential nutriment. There are more cases of particular rheumatism, locomotor ataxia, paresis, neuritis, and similar diseases resultant from the use of minerals than most people are aware of. These facts are brought out by the medical department of The Swift Specific Co., 217 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It is mailed free, together with special information, to all who write describing their symptoms.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. to-day, but be careful not to have something palmed off on you falsely claimed to be "just as good."

The only reason why anyone will try to sell you something in place of S. S. S. is the extra profit.

PRINTER TURNS OUT OVER MILLION BOOKS

State Printer Says Free Text Book Law Is Proving Great Success

The demand for free school books continues unabated, and last month $2,103 books were distributed by the state printing office to the school children of the state. The total for the nine months of this year has now reached the enormous total of 1,231,631. The state plant is being run to its fullest capacity and State Printer Friend W. Richardson hopes to meet the demand of the year to catch up with the demand. The fact that the constitutional amendment went into effect immediately without giving time to provide a supply of books and to equip the state plant with more machinery has made it a great demand. The total demand is two and one-half times as large as it was when books were sold.

"The free distribution of books is a great success," says Richardson, "and hundreds of children are receiving books who went without under the old plan."

SANGER WOMAN SUES HUSBAND FOR SUPPORT

Divorces Granted and Two Suits By Wives for Desertion

Papers were filed yesterday here on transfer from Los Angeles county of the suit for maintenance of Mrs. Ethel A. Brehier against O. A. Brehier, a druggist of Sanger. She asks for a permanent monthly allowance of $100 without divorce, alleging that he has not given her financial support since January, 1912. She is living with her mother at Los Angeles, who she says is not in a position to maintain her, besides which the plaintiff asserts that she is not employed, and is without prospect of immediate employment.

The suit was commenced in Los Angeles on Aug. 2. The Brehiers married in August, 1910, and she says he deserted her in October, 1911.

Deserted more than a year ago, Alta Watenberg was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Church from Jake Watenberg, who is employed in the Coalinga field. The wife was given the custody of the 3 daughters aged 1, 14 and 11 years. The Watenbergs married at Ukiah, in January, 1909.

On the ground of desertion five months and three weeks after marriage, divorce was granted by Judge Austin to Kenneth L. Hughes from Lila L. Hughes nee Madden. They married in February, 1912, with desertion on her part in August by refusing longer to continue her abode with him. The suit for divorce followed in September, 1912. The wife was formerly a stenographer.

Foreclosure Asked Against Tielman, Woy and Madison Held Land

I. Tielman, M. L. Woy and M. Madison who are interested in real estate holdings north and west of the city and about Redding Park are the principal defendants named in a suit brought yesterday by C. A. Welles of San Francisco on four notes each for $17,500 of October 4, 1905. The judgment asked is for $61,892.01, namely $23,950 as principal and $37,942.01 as interest at the rate of 8 per cent compounded annually but paid up until the 2nd of this month. Foreclosure is also asked on the mortgage security covering 470 acres of land, 30 in the W. 1-2 of the S. E. 1-4 of S. 14-20 and 390 in section 5-14-20 embracing what is placed as Western Addition to Fresno City. An attorney's fee of $500 is also asked in the judgment prayer. As other defendants in the case are named H. A. Barklow, J. A. Montgomery, Waterman Bros. Inc., May Virgin, J. F. and Mary F. Fentry who have interests in the land under contracts to purchase. The suit is brought by H. T. Brandenstein, an attorney of San Francisco and Boyle A. Carter of this city.

Asked Terzian for divorce on the ground of desertion, J. G. Ohannessian is her attorney. On transfer from Marin county were filed the papers in the Japanese case of Hikamatsu Kawanato for divorce from Momo Hikamatsu on the ground of his desertion 6 years ago.

BUSINESS IS GOOD

It is decidedly refreshing and tremendously encouraging to read on the same day the news of President Wilson signing the tariff bill and the reports of Dulles and Bradstreet indicating that business is improving and the lightness in the money market is being relieved. Evidently the business of the country has adjusted itself to the tariff revision with unprecedented success, and what is perhaps still more important, the nerves of the country have been allayed by the prospects of tariff revision less than they ever were before.

This does not mean that the tariff bill is a good bill or that it was passed by the right method. As to the bill itself, the best that can be said of it is that it takes the place of an inexcusably bad bill, and that it is itself nothing like so bad as its promoters promised to make it. It is thus in two respects negatively good. It is negatively good to repeal a bad bill and it is negatively good to break a bad promise. By contrast with what was before and what is threatened to come after, this bill is relatively acceptable. Even this qualified praise of the schedule of the bill, however, cannot be extended to the methods by which it was passed. The method of this bill differs in only one respect from that of its predecessor. When the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill was passed President Taft contended himself with just but important criticism of its inequities. But he did not with sufficient vigor prevent those inequities and he did not sign the bill. President Cleveland, on a former like occasion, not merely criticized, but denounced the inequities of the bill and he refused to sign it, but did permit it to become a law. In the case of the present bill President Wilson intervened personally with the big stick and actually vetoed the bill. The bill was passed not by Congress but by the President. To those who believe in executive dictatorship this is an improvement. Otherwise the bill was the worst of the same log-rolling and cue's gag rule that has marked its predecessor. In its schedule it is a step, not toward the right, but at least backward from one sort of wrong. In its method it has taken no step at all, but has simply extended and perpetuated the bad precedent of previous administrations, both Republican and Democratic.

But the immediate and acutely important thing is that business is good and that the commercial agencies report that prospects are better. When the country can survive a tariff revision and a periodic financial stringency and go forward to good business nevertheless, the substantial conditions of that country are very sound indeed. We have had this summer some conditions closely analogous to those which preceded the panic of 1907. It is now certain that these conditions will not lead to the result which was then produced. With the brakes down and a big tariff bump to surmount, the American commercial motor has been strong enough to go forward nevertheless. Now that the bump is surmounted, with a clear, straight road ahead and the brakes loosened, prospects could not be better.

ANTI-STRIKE LAW

The threat of Governor Foss of Massachusetts to call a special session of the legislature to pass a law prohibiting all railroad strikes will probably not be carried out. Such a course would be too drastic for serious consideration under present conditions. The state has no right to prohibit men from striking until it has first supplied them with an adequate means for the redress of their grievances through other channels, and it will scarcely be contended that Governor Foss could extemporize at a single extra session a system of arbitration entirely adequate to this end. Nevertheless, the mere fact that an intelligent man in a position of great responsibility could seriously propose such a law indicates a situation which must be reckoned with. That situation is that an institution like the railroad, on which the very life of a civilized people depends, cannot be permitted to be tied up on a merely private dispute between the two parties to the private fraction of the business. The interest of the public in the operation of the railroads is even greater than the interest of either the owners or the employees, and no method of settling a dispute between the two private factors is tolerable unless the public factor is also recognized and its rights are protected.

In this particular case in Massachusetts of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, the matter can be met more directly. There have been several very bad wrecks recently on this railroad, and public investigation has indicated that one of the reasons for these wrecks is the seniority system of promotion demanded by the trainmen's unions. When a vacancy occurs in the position of engine driver for the fast express trains, the rule is that the place must go to the top man by seniority on the waiting list, regardless of the comparative competency of this man. The man in question may be completely competent for certain positions, but temperamentally not adapted to the heavier strain of a fast passenger train. In some recent wrecks this seems to have been the case and in response to the demand of the public, as expressed through its official bodies, the managers of the railroad have put in a system of promotion by efficiency instead of by seniority. The employees are threatening to strike against the introduction of this rule. Instead of passing a law forbidding the strike, it might be simpler to pass a law requiring railroads to adopt and enforce the efficiency rule and putting the operation of this rule under the control of the state railroad commission. The employees, if they then struck, would be striking not against the railroad, but against the law, and there would be legal remedies automatically operative under such circumstances. If railroads can be compelled by law to put in certain safety devices, they can also be compelled by law to enforce certain safety rules. And among these an efficiency system of promotion is decidedly included.

But in the long run some such law as that proposed three years ago in California by Harris Westcott will have to be passed. This law is now in force in Canada and is working well. The only criticism that has been made on it is that it does not work to quite absolute perfection. It does not stop quite all strikes nor redress quite all grievances. But it does stop nearly all strikes and redress nearly all grievances. A law, to be 100 per cent efficient, would have to be 100 per cent tyrannical. But a law can be made 90 per cent efficient without being tyrannical at all. Neither the employees nor the employers desire this law. It deprives both of them of some privileges which they prefer to exercise. But it deprives neither of them of any rights which they ought to exercise, and it does protect the public in some rights which it must maintain and which the present system totally ignores.

INJUNCTION ABUSE

The strange performance in Seattle day before yesterday, when a meeting of all the judges of the Superior Court except one had to be held to lay plans for stopping the abuse of authority by the remaining judge, illustrates the absolute need of some legislative regulation of the abuse of injunctions. Here was fortunately a case in which the tyranny of one judge was checked by the united action of his fellow judges. But it happens frequently that a judge is acting quite alone and there are no other judges to whom a successful appeal can appropriately be made. The rights of a judge in such cases should be definitely and strictly defined by law, and he should be made accountable to some definite and accessible authority for the abuse of his rights.

The difficulty is that the proposals in legislatures to meet this evil of arbitrary injunctions are nearly always made by those who wish also to destroy the protection of legitimate injunctions. Issues over injunctions nearly always arise in labor disputes. There are cases in labor disputes in which it is highly important that the court by injunction should prevent strikers and their friends from doing certain things which those strikers very much desire to have done. The injunction is a process of compulsion, to deprive certain persons of liberties which they desire to exercise. The anti-injunction bills in legislatures are practically never written by the legislator ostensibly introducing them, but they are handed to him by the representative of organized labor and the bills are purposely so written as to stop not merely the abuse but also the proper use of injunctions in labor disputes. If it is then proposed to amend the bill so as to prevent only the abuses, the promoters of the bill immediately announce that they would rather have no bill than a bill "emasculated" in this manner. Since the opponents of the bill also prefer no bill to a bill, the result is very likely to be a unanimous agreement to do nothing.

This is only one of the numerous examples of impotency in legislatures caused by our present system, in which legislation usually originates from non-governmental sources. Nevertheless, it is highly desirable that some legislation be passed in all the states which will effectively prevent such usurpation as that practiced by Judge Humphries in Seattle, but which will also as effectively prevent those abuses in labor disputes which militant strikers do not desire to have prevented, but which the stability of society requires must be prevented by some method sufficiently summary to be effective.

WILL FIGHT ACTION OF CHARITIES BOARD

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—Declaring that the action of the state board of charities and corrections in refusing to permit the continuation of St. Francis hospital directors was unjust, Mother Margaret Mines, supervisor of the institution, announced today that steps would be taken to resist the closing of the place. An investigation, independent of the state board, will be asked for the purpose of proving or disproving the report that the directors fail to measure up to the required physical and educational standard.

Mother Mines established the director in 1858, and has maintained it ever since partly through state aid and partly by subscription. Father Charles A. Ramon, representative of the Catholic clergy on the state board, stated today that the institution was not under diocesan control and that criticism of the management would have to rest with the woman who conducted it as a private enterprise.

FROG HAD LOST RING.
 The wedding ring which Mrs. James A. De Gure, of Newark, N. J., lost from her finger while bathing at Stockbridge, Mass., on her honeymoon five years ago, was recovered here on the body of a frog caught in Laurel Lake, at Lee, several miles from the hotel. The frog was wearing the gold band like a big belt, and was unable to jump quickly. The husband was right. Mrs. De Gure was a guest, as usual, at the Aspinwall, when the boy who found the frog brought it to the hotel as a curiosity.—Lenox (Mass.) Dispatch to the Boston Herald.

DID CLEOPATRA USE AN ASP?

The story that Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt, killed herself by allowing an asp to bite her has long been generally credited, but probably has no better historical basis than the fanciful imagination of some gossip Roman historian. For some time before her death she made careful preparations for that deadly asp would have been so carefully handled and could have been kept concealed until the time it was to be put to use.

In Harper's "Dictionary of Classical Literature and Antiquities" the compiler states: "She ended her days, if the common account is to be credited, by the bite of an asp, though some ascribed her death to poison administered internally. A small puncture in the arm was the only mark of violence which could be detected on the body of Cleopatra, and it was therefore believed that she had procured death either by the bite of a venomous reptile or by the use of a poisoned bodkin."

The "Encyclopaedia Britannica" places so little credit to the story of the asp that it even makes no reference to it and it has been evidently taken from some old chronicle, a source more often unreliable than otherwise. Many other authorities of the same character ignore the asp story, and even ancient historians print it with the modification "it is said."

No authentic pictures of Cleopatra are extant and the only way of judging of her appearance is the engraving on old Egyptian coins. She is reported to have been very beautiful. "If judged from the Egyptian type, Plutarch adds to her beauty that 'her voice and words were marvelously pleasant; for her tongue was an instrument of music which she easily turned into any language that pleased her'."

That this statement may be true is shown in the alluring way with which she handled her lovers. When Antony suffered defeat, due entirely to his desire to be always near Cleopatra, he blamed his reverses to her having betrayed him. The Egyptian Queen, alarmed at his vehemence, fled at once to the magnificent tomb she had built as a refuge near the temple of Isis, and caused a report to be spread that she was dead. Antony, on hearing this, reproached himself for his cruel words, and throwing himself on a sword, inflicted a mortal wound. Antony died in Cleopatra's arms, while she smothered him. It is said, with passionate caresses, as she was her promise is not known, but the romance has invented, it would appear, a most picturesque means of death.

Following one of her visits to the tomb, which left her more depressed than ever, it is said that while at dinner she ordered a basket of figs brought to her, under the leaves of which an asp was concealed. The Queen pretended that she would go to the bath, and took the basket with her. When her servants opened the door later to see what was detaining their mistress, they found her dead, lying on a bed of gold, at the feet of the asp.

Shakespeare and many other writers have made use of the asp story and there are a great number of famous paintings by ancient masters showing the Queen applying the asp. None of the story-tellers have tried to explain who was the accomplice of the Queen, and it does not seem likely that a deadly asp would have been so carefully handled and could have been kept concealed until the time it was to be put to use.

tered, examined. The doctors said that they would be busy all morning and possibly longer compiling the results from the scores cards and that they would probably be able to give out the names of the winning babies this afternoon.

The doctors who did the examining yesterday were as follows: H. J. Craycroft, C. P. H. Kjaerby, Mrs. Flora Smith, W. T. Barr, Mitchell of Fowler, J. H. Hensley and H. Hensley.

BABIES EXAMINED

FIREWORKS DISPLAY

One of the most magnificent displays of fireworks seen in Fresno was presented last night by the Wilson Fireworks Company of Los Angeles as the evening's entertainment of the fair. The display was a colorful and brought expressions of admiration from the several thousand spectators who viewed the final performance of the week from a packed grandstand and jammed boulevards.

The fall of a fireball depicted in fire was the fitting climax for a week of grand entertainment. This pyrotechnical spectacle depicted in outlines of fire, in most minute detail of the capture of the city. The walled city, its murets and domes were plainly outlined by the skilled hand of the pyrotechnist.

A distant rapid rattle of light arms foretold the approach of the army. Gradually increasing to a deafening din, falling towers and sudden dazzling flashes of light told of the effect of the heavy cannonading. Degree by degree, so slow that it was barely discernible, the firing ceased; until of a sudden the deathlike stillness told of the fall of the city.

Chaplain des Oiselets, included in a number of other feature displays, was quite the most effective pyrotechnical spectacle of the evening. This number is a French idea depicting the flight of many birds.

KINGSBURG, FIRST PRIZE

The booth which took the sweepstakes of the community exhibits is that of the Kingsburg Progress Club in the gallery of the pavilion. The exhibit is the first ever made by the little community on our south coast and practically every man, woman and child of the town has been during the week to see it. As a stimulus to local pride Kingsburg has done more than taken a prize.

The booth is installed by a committee of women under the leadership of Dr. Flora Smith with the object of applying the premium money, if any, was secured, to the purchase of sanitary drinking fountain on Grand street in Kingsburg. Incidentally it was through the energy of this committee that the fair directors instituted the community exhibit scheme.

The prize winning booth is perched on a raised platform and is colored Mission Light. Palm trees and poinsettias are used in decoration. The principal exhibits are needle work, most of it of a very fine and rare quality. The booth took besides the general prize the highest prize in the display, two first prizes in general needlework, one first in art woodwork and a third in canned fruit.

Some rare pieces of Swedish fillet and Eastern tapestry designs are included in the exhibit. Early everything called for the domestic and industrial departments in the catalogue are found there. One of the judges mentioned that everything that could be thought of in needlework is there. Among some of the rare and unique articles exhibited is an apron of exquisite workmanship, which is sixty years old and very beautiful. A resident of Kingsburg is the present owner of the apron and is very proud of her possession.

So strong is the community interest in the fair exhibit by the women of Kingsburg, that when asked last evening regarding the authorship of the various pieces of work, the members of the committee requested that all mention of individual work be left out.

WOMEN'S CLUB AWARDS

The Women's Club of Malaga took second prize and was closely followed by Selma as third, Sanger, fourth, and Fowler, fifth, in making the best display of needlework booths on the second floor of the pavilion. These exhibits attracted large crowds of people all day and into the evening on account of the many valuable and clever pieces of handwork by the women of the various towns.

Powder took first prize in the exhibit was followed by Malaga with second prize of canned household goods, and Kingsburg as third.

SCHOOL DEMONSTRATIONS

Practical training for the school boy and girl of today is plainly demonstrated in the manual art exhibition at the fair. Every art from the construction of the swing yard to the building of the family house has been taught the children with marked success, as the exhibits plainly indicate.

Ten beautiful school girls of the domestic science department busy themselves with daily tasks and sewing lessons. Sewing machines and other household articles are in evidence everywhere, the girls having every opportunity to try their skill with all articles dear to the housewife's heart.

In the manual training department, excellent exhibits of the handcraft of the young men are displayed. The work is principally confined to carpentry and drafting. Several plans for houses and outbuildings, as well as magnificent mansions, bear the marks of thorough understanding.

One cannot appreciate the progress made by the school students unless a glimpse is taken of the work they have made. Color effect, lights and shades and the training of the hand to follow the eye, practically completes the work.

Primary and high school work is on display in the high school booth. C. C. Starr, superintendent of schools, has taken a great interest in the exhibit and has done everything in his power to make it a success.

ISSUE WITH DR. COOK

Assert State Horticultural

Commissioner Made In-

accurate Report

The California Cured Fruit Exchange of Sacramento, a co-operative marketing agency of growers' associations, have taken exception to the reports given out by State Horticultural Commissioner A. J. Cook in regard to fruit crops and the results are inaccurate, detrimental to California growers and of advantage to buyers in the East who might try to "bear" the market. The Fruit Agency claims that the estimates placed by Dr. Cook on the California peach crop are too high, that the peach crop instead of being 50 per cent of the 1912 crop, as Dr. Cook reported, will not exceed 55 per cent; the 1913 peach crop will not exceed 50,000,000 pounds while Dr. Cook placed it at 55 per cent of normal, which is 100,000,000 pounds. The agency places the apricot crop at 40 per cent or just one-half of Dr. Cook's estimate.

The peach growers of this section will meet at 10 o'clock this morning in the offices of the California Raisin Exchange for the purpose of considering further organization. A good attendance is expected.

W. R. Nutting of the Raisin Exchange is expected to return today from the south where he has been investigating the date into

To Complete Organization At Unitarian Church

Next Monday

Determine Program for Its Concert At Methodist Church Tomorrow

At a meeting next Monday night at the First Unitarian church, the Fresno male chorus will complete its organization with the election of officers and adoption of constitution and by-laws. Monday evening will probably be the night selected for the weekly rehearsals and the Unitarian church is a likely selection for place of meeting.

The singers will meet at 7:30 for the important business session which will determine the future of Fresno's first male chorus. Prof. Arthur G. Wahlberg will doubtless continue as director. The constitution to be adopted is patterned after that of the Loring Club of San Francisco and also that of the Elks Club of Los Angeles.

At a final rehearsal held at the First Methodist church last evening, details were completed for the Sunday evening concert, the first to be prepared by the chorus. This concert is to be held at the First Methodist church at 7:30 with the full chorus of forty voices.

Later in the season more pretentious musical compositions will be studied for the big concert planned for the holidays.

The personnel of the chorus is complete as follows:

GOVERNOR JOHNSON AND MAYOR ROLPH IN FRESNO

Also Theodore Roche, J. Att Sullivan and Eustace Cullinan

Pleased With County, Much Surprised At Growth of Fresno City

Governor Hiram Johnson and Mayor James Rolph, Matt Sullivan, Theodore Roche and Eustace Cullinan of San Francisco arrived in this city yesterday at 3:40 p. m. from Sacramento by automobile to visit the Fresno fair.

They immediately proceeded to the Fresno hotel, where they are making their headquarters while in the city.

After dinner last night they proceeded to roam around the city looking over the improvements that have been made here of late.

The governor, expressed surprise at the number of new buildings that have gone up recently and at the number that are now under way.

After a short trip around town they proceeded to the city hall, where they visited the police and fire departments.

The governor said that the trip down the valley had been a pleasure indeed and that everywhere they stopped along the way that people spoke of the general improvement in conditions.

The governor plans to go from here over to the coast with the rest of the party and stop over at San Luis Obispo after leaving here tomorrow morning.

Mayor Rolph with the rest of the party will proceed to the county seat of the state for a ten-day vacation trip.

Governor Johnson does not know at the present time whether he will be able to accompany them on the trip or leave them at San Luis Obispo.

Mayor Rolph said last night that the work on the Exposition at San Francisco is progressing rapidly and that they are far ahead of time in getting the various buildings under way.

Plans are also under way by John McLaren, the landscape gardener in charge of the planting of the grounds, so that they will present a striking appearance of California verdure and lushness long before the exposition opens.

The mayor also stated that the Geary Street Municipal railroad in the city was more than a success financially and the plans were well under way for the 16.7 miles more of municipal road to be built.

The road will be completed by December, 1914.

Mayor Rolph also said that the municipal bonds for the new city hall, civic center and hospital were meeting with good demand and that the city treasury had sold $150,000 of them over the counter within the last two days.

Over $2,000,000 worth of them have been sold during the last two months.

The inaugural address of President James Brazil and the appointment of various committees were features of the meeting of the Fresno High School Senate last evening.

Important among the committee appointments was that of the city committee, of which Irving White of South Dakota is chairman, which will have for its purpose the securing of debates for the Senate with out of town teams.

The committee appointments were in detail as follows: Program—Streeter of Colo., White of S. D., and Chapman of Mich.; out of town debates—White of S. D., Collins of R. I., and Streeter of Colo.; bills and resolutions—Grimmer of Wash., Mugg of Wyo., and Campbell of Delaware; roll call—Michaelson of Illinois; membership—Collins of R. I.

William Shakespeare was selected as author for roll call at the next meeting.

In his inaugural address President Brazil outlined a term of strict discipline. Prof. Kerr in his inaugural address compared the brilliant past—he was President of the United States for the Senate for four terms eight years ago—the bright future he predicted for the Senate. Gibbs of Indiana and Shuck of Tennessee were elected to membership.

In a general debate on the question: "Resolved, That the Wilson tariff is for the best interests of the American people," the affirmative won by a vote of 13 to 1. The question proposed for the debate October 17th was: "Resolved, That the prisoners under full sentence shall be used to work the roads in order to pay for their board."

The affirmative will be supported by Michaelson of Illinois and Chapman of Michigan, and the negative will be upheld by Collins of Rhode Island and Mugg of Wyoming.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon.

SHELBYVILLE CRANK IS TO THE FORE WITH CLAIM OF $100,000

Makes Demand for So Much Royalty Withheld for 20 Years

The lone man in the universe who pays taxes on a lot in the phantom West Side town of Shelbyville, was heard from yesterday as he is annually about tax paying time.

He is a colored preacher, the Rev. E. David Minton of Shreveport, La. No arguments or explanations can induce him to believe other than that he has a fortune in his Shelbyville lot.

Rev. Minton has now gone on another tack, and has put in a claim for $100,000 as income due but retained from him since his 20 years' possession.

His agent, Tax Collector A. B. Smith, said and formal warning that "the treasury department at Washington has been advised regarding the royalty as income due me there since 20 years which I fix at $5000 yearly."

Mr. Minton is assessed annually $5 on his ownership of lot 13 in block 343 as shown in the beautiful map of Shelbyville on record at the courthouse.

His annual tax has been figured at 11 cents, and his letter yesterday to Collector Smith enclosed 13 cents in postage to pay for his 1913-14 taxes, or as he put it in his letter, "my prorata of taxes and incidental expenses connected therewith on my property, sections 1, 2, 11 and 15-16."

The fact is that Shelbyville lots have years ago been sold to the state for delinquent taxes, and as the ownership of them is a problem, taken with the valuable character of the land, Shelbyville has not been on the assessment roll for a long series of years.

The Louisiana man has protested against this exclusion, and has insisted that he be assessed and taxed yearly and his request has been complied with to humor him.

The Shreveport man is a frequent correspondent on the subject of this lot 13 of his. Not so long ago he wrote to Collector Smith to know whether Kuttner, Goldstein & Co. is a responsible mercantile firm to entrust with the collection of his rents, profits and issues out at Shelbyville.

At another time, he wrote to know whether it is true that some one had erected a party wall on his lot without his authority, and on still another occasion he asked to know as to the truth of a report that all had been discovered on his lot.

The fact of the matter is that practical jokes are not uncommon here at various times written to him extravagant tales as to the great prospective value of his Shelbyville lot, and that the court officials are in a league to withhold from him the truth and also the revenge which is justly his.

In answer to one of these practical joke letters, he had once written that he had called the attention of the President of the United States to the conspiracy against him as a citizen of the republic to despoil him of his property.

Full Choir Will Sing for Initial Mass of Winter Season

The beginning of the winter observances at St. John's Catholic church will be noted tomorrow morning in the first high mass to be celebrated since the beginning of summer, with a full choir in attendance.

The final choir rehearsal was held by Miss Catherine Balthis, director, last evening and all is in readiness for the program Sunday.

The services will be closed by Nevil's "Rosary" by Miss Catherine Balthis.

The other soloists of the choir, in addition to Miss Catherine Balthis in the order in which they will sing, are the following: Miss Marguerite Balthis, Mrs. F. M. Lane, Miss Ethel McCabe, J. P. McSherry, Edgar Berningham, Henry Vez, Thomas Brazil and Claudio Jones. W. Y. Spence will provide as organist.

TO EXHIBIT RAISIN SEEDER AT LAND SHOW

William Robertson Leaves Monday to Install Booth

Fresno will have a raisin seeder at the Land Show, which opens in San Francisco October 11. William Robertson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, leaves Monday for San Francisco, where he will supervise the installation of the exhibit.

Fresno has retained 600 square feet of space. The exhibit will deal largely with industrial exhibits. No grown fruit will be shown, the display to be composed wholly of dried fruits. Coalings will be represented with an oil exhibit.

Several tons of loose raisins will be shipped to San Francisco and the raisins seeded as they are given out. The seeder was exhibited once before at Albuquerque.

EMPLOYMENT OFFICE CLOSED BY OFFICER

The employment office of Gonzales Partida at 1848 Kern street was closed yesterday morning by an officer of the State Labor Commission because he is accused of having made illicit propositions to women who answered his advertisements.

Partida turned over his books and state license to the deputy of the state labor commissioner. A train was late by the state officer and Partida walked into it Thursday night when a woman who had previously rejected one of his propositions called to seek another position. The police worked with the deputy but no arrests were made.

California Oil Field News

MIDWAY GUSHER BELT IS WONDER OF WORLD

Standard's McNeese Lease Is Netting Rockefeller Daily Income of $20,000

TAFT, Oct. 3.—Producing 40,000 barrels of oil daily, the greater part being higher than 23 gravity, which means the turning into the pockets of John D. Rockefeller more than $20,000 daily, the McNeese lease of the Standard Oil Company, on section 26, 31-23, is now the wonder of the world.

The score of producing wells are turning out more oil, and better oil at that, than are the 1,644 wells in the entire Kern River fields, which during the month of August produced but little more than half as much daily as did the 160 acres in any one day during the past week.

Such a proposition is hard to believe, for the forest of derricks in the Kern River field covering more than 100 square miles, has been a wonder in its day and the thought that a tract of land one-fourth of a mile square produces more oil in a day, by almost double than does the vast developed territory is almost beyond comprehension.

On last Friday the lease produced more oil than the McKirtick, Lost Hills and Belridge, Ventura county.

DEVELOPMENT NEWS OF MIDWAY FIELDS

TAFT, Oct. 3.—Supt. Edwards of the Midway Northern Oil company on section 22, 12-23, is preparing to again bring in the No. 1 well. The well was formerly a producer, it at one time flowing when drilled into the top of the big sand which made the Maricopa Queen famous. The well, after sanding was drilled deeper and is to be finished and tested in the next few days.

The No. 1 well of the August Oil Company on section 3, 11-23, which has been off production, is being cleaned out. It is to be brought in again in a few days.

The 475 feet of McEvey strainer pipe was installed yesterday in the No. 1 water well of the Southern California Midway Gas company at its new compressor pump on section 23, 32-24. The installation of the pipe was made under the personal supervision of W. J. Rice, the company's field representative. The well is in an excellent appearing sand, and there is every evidence of plenty of water at hand. It is being watched closely by oil operators, who are heavy water users with some making plans to put down wells if this test proves successful.

and Newhall, Los Angeles and Salt Lake and Summerland fields, combined. The production of the above fields was in the most part obtained by pumping and much expense while with the McNeese lease of the Standard, the greater part of the oil is from flowing wells which require almost absolutely no attention other than the gauging of the oil and the running into the lines of the production.

SHARES IN UNION OIL REGAIN SOME LOSSES

Month's Recuperation Is Good; Dividend Uncertainty Relieved

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—Union Oil stock has recuperated some of its losses. This strength is due in a measure to relief in the uncertainty regarding the January dividend.

Although for the present a certain degree of suspense hangs over operations in the security. Trading has shown quite a marked falling off, and it is evident that holders are waiting for definite news regarding the January dividend before committing themselves to any extent.

The gain which has been shown in Union stock is largely in accordance with the generally bullish temperament of the market lately, beside being due in part to the reduction in the amount of the company's indebtedness which is steadily accomplished. The latter part of August the stock touched $41, and following this, a steady advance began, until early this week Union stood at $42.50, showing a net gain of $1.50 per share in just about a month. This represented an increase in the market value of the $31,000,000 issued shares, amounting to several million dollars. The stock has weakened a little over two points since.

Beside the uncertainty regarding the January dividend, which will make itself more strongly felt as the time for the announcement approaches, there is also the General Petroleum operations as a possible factor in affecting the future price of the stock. Capt. John Barreton, secretary of the company, has now been in Europe for several months and is apparently working on a deal for either the General Petroleum, the Union Oil Company or both. There is, perhaps, a tendency on the part of some shareholders to await developments of a definite nature in this phase of the company's affairs as well.

Regarding the January dividend, a rumor has it that 40 cents per share will be paid, which would make the total amount disbursed for the year ending that month 1 per cent. The same rumor has it that $1.50 a share will be paid in July. This would be at the rate of 3 per cent per annum. It would appear rather likely that the company will find it advantageous to declare at least a small dividend next January. To pay a dividend of 40 cents a share would require less than $100,000.

Chamberlain's Cough, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has relieved more pain and suffering, and saved more lives than any other medicine in use. —Advertisement—

MIDWAY DYNAMITERS TAKE DEATH IN CAR AS THEIR PASSENGER

TAFT, Oct. 3.—Taking death in both hands, but doing it with a smile, "Keno" Keene and Fout Alexander left this morning for Los Angeles by auto, carrying with them 300 pounds of 80 per cent nitro-glycerine.

The giant powder is to be used in dynamiting wells in the southern part of the state by Charles Allison, of Allison and Barry. Because of a shortage in the supply at the southern magazine of the company of the special size needed, and the falling of the railroads that no giant powder may be shipped other than on special days of the month, the supply was taken down to the company's big car. Keene claimed that he was making the trip that he might be on hand to write the story of any accident which might happen should the 300 pounds of dynamite explode with a bang. Three of his friends who heard of the trip he was making, thought that the story has been written by Keene in advance.

MIDWAY PRODUCTION IS BIGGEST IN STATE

Standard Runs Show Field Supplies Over One-Half of Oil Piped to Coast

TAFT, Oct. 3.—The report of the runs and shipments at the Standard Midway field, which has just been filed, shows the Midway to be the best field in the state as far as production is concerned. More oil was run from the Midway than all other fields of the state combined.

But few people realize what a field the Midway is, or how wide its scope until they pay it a visit. Even then its wonders are in many ways under cover until the actual figures are shown. Those living on the West side who are not thoroughly conversant with what its relationship is to other fields feel that it is nothing of importance, but when a comparison is made its wonder shows up in many ways.

Without going beyond any bounds the Midway is without a doubt the greatest oil field ever known. Many times the remark is heard that the gushers are gone and that the Midway is being entirely drained out. This almost monthly is turned to naught with new "spouters" being brought in and more wonders added to the world's greatest oil territory. Four years ago it was the Lakeview that was the wonder. Then came the Buick, with its big wells. This was followed by the Pacific Coast with its demonstration gushers. Section 32, 31-23 was considered the most wonderful of all the fields. Then came the spouting in the Maricopa end of the west side with the big deep sand being entered by the Maricopa Queen. Section 22, 12-23 remains a wonder with its oil far from being developed. Section 26, 31-23 because of its rapid development has outstripped it and has proven up to be the greatest section of property in the world today as far as production in oil is concerned.

The comparison of the Midway with the other fields relative to its runs through the pipe lines is as follows:

Field	Barrels
Cooling	150,985
Newhall	9,035
Santa Maria	1,518
Whittier-Fullerton	61,347
Lost Hills	21,128
Midway-Sunset	222,582
Total	569,586

MANY OIL TANKERS ARE BEING BUILT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—In the great demand for tankers which is now evident, the London Petroleum Review finds an excellent illustration of the growing business in petroleum products. "No more striking evidence could be furnished of the continuous expansion in the international trade in petroleum products than the activity which is today noticeable in the construction of new oil tankers to meet the rapidly growing importance of the petroleum trade," it says.

"So far, during the present year, some twenty-five new vessels have been launched, yet as these leave the stocks other new tankers take their place, the result being one long run of activity in tank-steamers construction. It is estimated that between now and the end of the present year almost twenty new tankers will have left their building stocks, though it is evident in the scheme of the shipbuilder will be required for the next one or two years in oil-tanker construction before the orders now placed or about to be given for new vessels will be executed. Such is the state of the market for increased ocean transportation facilities.

"Nor are all these new vessels required for one particular branch of the oil-carrying trade; the new vessels will trade in practically the whole of the seas of the world with their liquid oil cargoes, and an example of this varying interests, far removed in the scheme of the shipbuilder will be required for the next one or two years in oil-tanker construction before the orders now placed or about to be given for new vessels will be executed. Such is the state of the market for increased ocean transportation facilities.

REORGANIZE BEAR CREEK OIL COMPANY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—Regarding the reorganization of the old Bear Creek Oil and Mining Company, which recently took place following the consummation of a deal for the property by the General Petroleum Company, the following letter has been received at the local stock exchange from the Bear Creek Oil Company, which was organized to take over some remaining holdings in Loupoc:

"The old company's holdings in Midway field were sold out entirely to the General Petroleum Company, and all that remained besides this property which was sold are a few acres in Loupoc Valley, which also have been sold on a contract agreement, payments to be made in installments of about $500 a year. There is a small balance due.

"The new Bear Creek Oil Company was formed for the purpose of taking over this property. It has a capitalization of $100,000 of 1,000,000 shares at one cent each, and the stockholders of the old Bear Creek Oil and Mining Company were given shares for shares in the new company, so that the outstanding stock of the new concern is the same number of shares that was outstanding in the old company."

GARDNER OPPOSES WOMAN SUFFRAGE

OLIVE CROP BRINGS POWER PUMPING PLANTS DEVELOPING $165; MAY GO HIGHER MANY PROJECTS ON THE WEST SIDE

Henry Kerr To Plant 185 Acres in the Table Mountain District

Other Orchards Planned for Madera, Kings and Tulare Counties

The olive industry of California will develop within a few years into one of the largest and most profitable horticultural industries in the state. It is declared by those who have followed the trend of supply and demand and are conversant with the rapidly increasing population of the pickled ripe olive as a food product in all sections of the United States.

Although it will be several months yet before the current season's crop is harvested, the picklers are reported to be crowded with orders and assert that the supply is certain to fall far short of the demand, and this despite the fact that the crop is very much larger this year than last.

Reports from the various olive-growing centers of California are said to be gratifying. Prices range from $75 to $100 per ton on the trees, graded upon size and quality. It is stated that growers in the southern part of the state are constructing their olive pits from $115 to $125 per ton—orchard run—and that E. W. Fogh has sold the crop in his big grove at Thermalito for $165 per ton. The first of this season's crop is now being picked in the Imperial Valley by Gilford and Son and forwarded to San Diego for pickling. Later in the year the fruit will be gathered in other sections and by late December the entire crop will have been harvested.

Encouraged by the increasing demand for olives and the attendant increase in price for the fruit of the groves, horticulturists in the olive-growing sections of the state are said to be preparing to largely increase the area devoted to their growth. A scarcity of young trees of suitable for orchard planting is, however, according to reports, curtailing somewhat the plans of the growers. Two-year-old trees are now selling at 50 cents to $1.40 each, graded upon height and circumference. The nurserymen predict even higher prices before spring planting starts.

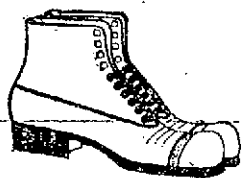

From Oroville comes the intelligence that a syndicate made up of the Professors Minor, Vaughan and Smith of the University of California, and Professor Kerr of the Fresno high school has purchased 280 acres of land in the Table Mountain district which is to be set to olives at the outset of the planting season. Bert Meek, a prominent horticulturist of the Oroville section is authority for the statement that Chicago capitalists will plant 200 acres of olives in the Table Mountain section. He also states that other growers at that point are preparing to increase their olive groves. Equally encouraging reports have been received from

The exhibition at the Fresno District Fair of power pumping plants has demonstrated to the people of this region some of the possibilities of high duty engines for water pumping in large quantities for irrigation purposes.

The use of these plants with both gas engines and electric power plants throughout Fresno county and the surrounding country is increasing daily with the result that much of the land which was only supplying a few dollars a year in income to its owners is now bringing him handsome income.

It is estimated that thousands of acres of this so-called arid land pasture land were brought under proper cultivation within this year by making use of the possibilities made by power pumping plants.

This change has been made more noticeable on the West Side than any other place. In places where the owner did not feel like putting down an artesian well for irrigation purposes, he dug to a distance of from 10 to 50 feet or so where he secured a good supply of water. A great deal of this water arose to within a few feet of the surface and was pumped out from there by means of three pumps. In most cases about eight-inch pumps sufficed.

Each one of these wells with pumping plants attached meant the bringing into actual use of a few hundred acres or so of land that had heretofore been regarded by many people of the Valley as not only useless but an eyesore to the community.

It is said that several thousand acres more of this land will be brought into active use within the next year or so by the use of water secured by means of power pumping plants.

In fact, many of the owners of ranches on the West Side are having wells bored at the present time so that they will be ready when they are needed next season.

One of the largest farms in the district to be doing this work is the Summit Lake Investment Co. Miller & Lutz, as well as many other firms with large interests on the West Side are also carrying on work of this kind.

People interested in this region say that it will not be long before a person traveling on a road in that district will be able to see transformers high in the air on posts almost any direction and plenty of them at that and at the same time hear the exhaust all along the line of dozens of gas engines pumping water that means a substantial income to the farmer, dairyman and orchardist. They also say that a well now being bored one will speak of the West Side as the "Verdant Westside."

It is not only here that water is being secured by this means in this district, almost anywhere in the region one may see either a transformer or the exhaust of a faithful gas engine. People desiring to secure a means of getting water that they can rely on are installing plants almost everywhere.

Then again, these plants can be used for other purposes by the energetic farmer. A gas engine or an electric motor is a supply of power that seldom gets tired and keeps working day and night without much attention if run within a day's time.

The various companies handling gas engines and power pumps in this city and the factory agents who are demonstrating at the county fair say that they have had a great deal of inquiry for pumps and power plants of all kinds and that within the short time that they have been exhibiting in agricultural hall that they have booked several orders.

MANY COLONISTS HERE WITH IDEA OF MAKING HOMES

WHAT COLONISTS SAY BROUGHT THEM HERE

"Heard so much of California."
"Received pamphlets about district fair."
"Ranch land prices attract."
"Got Fresno county booklet."
"Got Fresno county booklet."
"Saw exhibits at expositions in the East."
"San Joaquin valley a lure."

With the firm resolve of making California their home and with a big chance of their settling in the San Joaquin valley, over a hundred colonists from all parts of the United States have arrived in this city during the week and visited at the district fair, where they have been shown the wealth produced in this part of the state. Those who are here are but the forerunners of the thousands or so who are expected to arrive within the next few weeks.

Thousands of colonists are in the state at the present time visiting friends or inspecting different parts of California that they have heard of ever since they can remember. It is expected that many of these people will come here shortly with a view of settling permanently.

It is a common occurrence at either depot or to see local people greeting their friends and relatives who arrive on trains every train. They again there are those who arrive on these same trains who are without kin or kin in either the valley or the state, let alone Fresno. But incoming citizens they are.

In a great number of instances these who have arrived are here only to "look around," perhaps to return to their Eastern homes when the chill of winter hovers gloomily about. Then it is understood that they will accept the full value of the San Joaquin valley, as well as the rest of California and pack up and come out to remain permanently.

A. H. Jessup, H. A. Kemp and George R. Billings, with their families, making a party of eleven in all, of DeKalb, Ill., are looking over the nearby ranches and expect to become tillers of the soil, although they have not made up their minds whether they will grow alfalfa, potatoes or other farm products or buy orchards.

"I sold my ranch near DeKalb," said Jessup, "and came out here with Kemp and Billings, who had been renters there. Land there brings $150 to $250 an acre, and we have figured it out that the extreme cold of our winters and the extreme heat of our summers are too great a handicap to put up with if we can make as much money here. In other words, if we can do as well here, even if land is higher, and I understand good farm land around this county can be purchased for less than $200 an acre, we will enjoy life more and no doubt live longer by making the change."

wonderful growth of the city of Fresno in that direction in a very short time. One of the finest boulevards in the city has been built from the edge of town to the river through this tract. It is 120 feet in width and bordered with oaks and cypresses trees the entire length and is really a continuation of Van Ness avenue, one of Fresno's most beautiful residence streets.

STRONG DEMAND FOR NEW BUNGALOWS IN TOWN

Many Families Intend to Buy If City Offers Opportunities

Lots for Building Purposes Also Good Say Local Dealers

The sales of city property during the week were not above the general level of late although there was a great number of inquiries for residences coupled with a few sales. The demand for lots for immediate building purposes was also fairly strong. It is thought that many of these prospects will result in sales within a few weeks or so.

A few of the dealers who half-way specialize in city properties said that there is a great deal of inquiry from colonists who are waiting over for a few days to see what Fresno has to offer them. If they see good business opportunities they say that they will stay and settle permanently.

BUNGALOWS SELL FAST
H. G. Nolan, city salesman for Sheppard-Cochrane Company, reports brisk sales this week in new modern bungalows. Through their exchange listings the following sales were made:

To A. J. Treira, by the firm of Stanford & Squares, new bungalow on Tyler between Stockton and Abbey. Property of Miss Anna Therkof.

To A. J. Bronson, by the firm of Billings & Meyerling, new bungalow on Tyler, near Blackstone avenue. Property of Miss Anna Therkof.

The firm also reports the sale of a seven room bungalow at 550 T street. The property of Miss Gertrude Jacobs, to A. W. Smith, of the firm of Smith Bros., on J street. Prices on sales withheld.

TWO HOUSES SOLD
Stanforth & Sowles report the sale of a new five room bungalow belonging to Annie M. Therkof on Fowler avenue to E. J. Yleri. The purchase price was $2,750.

The sale of a five room house and two lots listed on the Fresno Realty Exchange by Stanforth & Hibberd was made during the week by Darling & Donahoe. The residence was purchased by James R. Barnes for $1,600.

SALES BY CHAPPEL
Roland A. Pickford purchased three lots on Thomas avenue near Blackstone recently from D. R. Bowling for $1,100. This sale made by the real estate agency of W. L. Chappell and John D. Cook.

Pickford is planning to commence work on a new five room bungalow on his property early next week. The building will cost approximately $2,200. Another deal reported by this firm was that of an exchange of property between G. W. Wilkinson and J. W. Eastner. The Sunset Realty Company handled one end of this deal.

Wilkinson traded his 40 acre alfalfa ranch which is located a little ways northeast of Clovis for a 20 acre tract of vines and orange trees owned by Eastner near the McKinley school house. Both pieces of property are said to be worth $10,000.

Eastner is making plans to build on his new tract immediately.

Yerliar, the manager of the Dodson-Orr Realty company states that there has been a great deal of interest shown by prospective buyers for this class-in area subdivision and anticipates a rapid sale of all the lots.

MANY INQUIRIES FOR FARM LANDS

Prospects During Week Double That of Any So Far This Fall

There has been more inquiry for country property this week than any other two weeks together this season, according to the real estate dealers yesterday. They give as the reason for this condition the great number of possible buyers that are always brought to this city when a district fair is in progress and that there are a great number of colonists here with a view of making this region their permanent homes.

While there were but few sales, the dealers say that they have lined up a big number of good prospects whom they think will return here shortly and purchase property of various sorts. The people who made inquiry for property did not seem to want any special kind of land, but asked for anything on the market in the way of farms, ranches, orchards, dairies and vineyards.

At the county fair inquiries were received by the hundreds by the people who had booths there for the purpose of advertising the properties that they are handling. These people to a large extent were people who have settled in other communities and have become dissatisfied with the conditions that they found there and are now looking for a better location. There were also a great number of colonists among those who displayed interest in the products from the various communities.

Roger M. Roberts, agricultural demonstrator for the Santa Fe railroad in the San Joaquin valley, who had charge of the exhibits in the agricultural department, said that he heard a great number of men who are here with their families say that they figured the San Joaquin valley as the best district in the state. This opinion they said they gathered from people who had lived in California and gone east for visits, through letters and through literature sent them by the various publicity bodies in the state.

Mr. and Mrs. T. K. REPRESENT PURCHASER REALTY AGENTS' VIEW

Cleveland Says Broker
Does Better Work By Looking After Buyer

That a real estate agent or broker should represent the purchaser rather than the seller is the opinion expressed by O. C. Saum of Cleveland, Ohio, at the recent convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges. "Why the real estate agent should represent or serve the buyer instead of the seller is a question as old as the Christian era and as up-to-date as the present moment," said Saum. "The 'Man of Nazareth' said: 'No man can serve two masters; either he will love the one and hate the other, or cleave to the one and despise the other.' It is true in business today. You cannot work for two people. Some men have said: 'When you work for a man, in God's name work for him.' Put in all you've got, and you can put it in for the buyer just as well as you can for the seller, if you think that way and work it that way. I have tried it."

Real estate service, primarily to the buyer. Of course, to the seller too, when he hires you, but don't work for more than one man at a time. All business is service of some kind. To quote from a card sent out among some other advertising matter: 'We all serve, from beggar to king, and it is only a question of the degree and intelligence of our efforts—and he who serves willingly serves doubly.'

UPHOLD IS URGED

"Methods which once were looked upon by certain real estate men as honorable are no longer tolerable. Indeed, methods that were once considered as 'part of the game' are now by statute made crimes."

"We should be constantly striving to uphold our profession. Give more time to missionary work in molding public opinion and private sentiment. Hold meetings and offer in our exchanges and at those meetings instead of devoting most of the time to a discussion of public improvements devote most of the time to a discussion of our own business, its evils and their remedies. Strive to establish a code of ethics, honestly and above board. How long would the dry goods, grocery, drug or other store last if they did not live up to the ideal of the square deal?"

"Realize that the study of ethics is pursued with the sole view of supplying ourselves with practical principles and to show us the best way in which to apply them."

"Ethics will never tell us in so many words what we in particular are to do. It is our business to find out exactly what we ought to do and do it, and ethics only instructs us where to look."

Superintendent District of the Fresno Canal and Irrigation company started a force of men to work cleaning out the Grant canal. The section completed in the last week from the bridge east of town toward the west will be put in condition first. The canal will be thoroughly cleaned and all narrow places widened so that it will have a minimum width of 40 feet. The work of building the new weir across the Kings River, northwest of Hanford, is being actively prosecuted by the Kings River Reclamation company. This will be used in turning water into the Stinson ditch. Good progress is being made and the work will be finished in about a month.

EXCAVATING FOR NEW REEDLEY BUILDING

Excavating for the foundation of the new home for the Reedley Telephone company was started last week and the masons will soon be at work with mortar and rock. According to President Perkins of the company, the building of the new office will be pushed with vigor to allow of making the improvements in the system about the city as soon as possible. Poles and wires will be removed from the principal business streets and in their stead cables will be run along the alleyways. When this is done the appearance of the lower portion of the city will be greatly improved and with the telephone company installed in its new home it will be in position to give service second to no other system in the state.

IN A QUANDARY AS TO HIS CITIZENSHIP

N. P. Nielsen Is Confronted
By Conflicting Declarations of Intention

Farmer Nels P. Nielsen was in a quandary when making application yesterday at the county clerk's office for his final naturalization papers in being confronted by two declarations of intention. One of those was made before Deputy County Clerk C. W. Beall on March 18, 1907, when he stated his age to be 21 years. The other was sworn to before Deputy A. D. Ewing on March 31, 1904, the 1907 declaration stating that he had arrived in New York in 1906. Nielsen claimed to have signed both declarations, but he was at a loss to account for the declaration made in 1904, when according to the other, it was his, he did not arrive in America from Denmark until two years later. Nielsen presented himself for citizenship under the 1907 declaration, but had lost his papers and therefore made application for a certified copy. The 1904 declaration would not have served him because under the new law it has lapsed as being more than seven years old. The applicant had no fixed recollection of the 1904 declaration, yet declared that both signatures were his. They bore a strong resemblance to each other.

USE OF BIBLE IN THE SCHOOLS

Editor Republican: All thinking people have come to the point of seeing that whatever is done in public schools regarding religious instruction must be done with due respect for both parties. Christianity is not of one mind as to what must be taught. Non-Christianity must be of one mind that the Bible should not be taught. This is not an affair that should be subjected to the vote of the people, as it would interfere with religious liberties. Therefore though the non-Christian has no claim to citizenship in heaven, he is according to the constitution entitled to all the same rights and privileges of the United States. The Bible to me is more valuable than all other books combined. It is true that the Bible is not sectarian, but the many sects makes the Bible appear very sectarian to the non-Christian. The sects are all dead to blame for the confusion, but the infidel sects are not

AUTOISTS TO FIGHT SPEEDING CHARGES

City Trustee and Attorney
Deny Charge; Guilty
Ones Pay $10

Those who got guilty to charges of exceeding the speed limit were entered in the police court yesterday morning by the majority of the automobilists arrested. Thursday afternoon on Tulare street. A few pleaded guilty and were fined five. The rest of the cases were taken to the court room and Police Judge Briggs was frequently forced to call for order. G. S. Waterman, city trustee; Dave Kewing, attorney, and B. E. Linnville entered pleas of not guilty. They were released on their own recognizance. Ben Hunsicker, George Beveridge, H. L. Sunderman and Con Mahoney, pleaded guilty and paid fines of $10. Several of the cited automobilists did not appear in court. Attorney Kewing said he was not going over fifteen miles and had witnesses in his automobile who can testify to the fact as they were watching the speedometer. The police allege he was traveling twenty-four miles an hour.

less responsible, and in considering these things don't forget that this is not a Christian nation. Not until both Christian and infidel are brought together can we expect harmony from the Bible, which must be turned up to God's standpoint and only then will its melody sound sweet to ears of Christian and non-Christian without a discord.

The home is the place for such instruction in the meantime, proving by our thoughts, words and actions that we believe what we teach them that God is a loving, wise, just and powerful Being.

ATHLETICS INFIELD MAY BE WINNER FOR MACK

Philadelphia Lineup for World Series Is Practically Intact

Larry Doyle and Eddie Collins Will Oppose Each Other On Second

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—A well known big league club manager said recently that in his opinion more games were won and lost on the infield than in any other department of baseball. Foy will undoubtedly be the assertion, and it is quite likely that victory will hang to a considerable extent upon the work of the Giant and Athletic infields during the coming world's series between the New York and Philadelphia clubs.

The Athletics' $100,000 infield is one that commands respect and admiration in baseball circles, but it is not worrying Giants if their statements are to be believed. McGraw has not tried to put a financial figure on his four infields, but he is known to be as well satisfied with his combination as any manager in the league.

Still the fact remains that all the figures available on the world's series of 1911 and the season's plays this year point to the Athletics quartet composed of McInnis, Collins, Baker and H. Barry as superior to Doyle, Herzog, Shaffer and Fletcher consistently as a whole.

In the combination which helped defeat the Giants two years ago, McInnis had no pari, being on the bench with an arm which had just gained strength after being broken. Harry Davis, the veteran who took his place, proved a most acceptable substitute, but with McInnis on the initial bag, as he will be when the present series opens, the Athletic infield is certain to be stronger than in 1911. Shaffer has held down third for the Giants in place of Herzog most of the season, and will possibly replace Herzog, according to the style of pitcher to be faced.

ATHLETICS' LINE-UP INTACT

Aside from the shifts and substitutions, the lineup will be the same as two years ago when the Athletics won the world's championship with four games out of six.

This being the case, the figures available should prove the best means of affording a comparison between the quartet which works for the Athletics and that of the Giants. Merkle and McInnis will be the rival first basemen, and Mack appears to have a decided advantage over the Giant's initial sack guardian. Merkle is not as finished a player as McInnis, but possesses greater speed on bases. In batting the Athletic star outshines Merkle. He is a more aggressive runner, and covers more ground around first base. "Davis outplayed Merkle during the 1911 clash, yet McInnis held the bag up to the point in the season when he broke his wrist. It is probable to suppose that Mack considered him the better player of the two.

COLLINS HEADS DOYLE

Moving to second base, Captain Larry Doyle is found to be opposed by Eddie Collins. The Giant's field leader is a high class player, but Collins is ranked as one of the most famous second basemen in baseball. At no time during the season of 1911, however, did Collins outplay Doyle. Whether the latter can duplicate this feat is doubtful. His recent accident in which his shoulder was badly wrenched when his automobile crashed into a tree will not improve his frame.

Furthermore, Doyle has not played or batted this season up to the standard set by himself during the world's series in which he was opposed by Collins. The latter has improved steadily, and his batting this season has been heavier than before. On the bases, Collins is faster than Doyle and has stolen many more bags than the Giant field leader. As a run-getter, the former Columbia university student also has the better of Doyle.

BAKER AT THIRD

For the position of third baseman these players must be considered. For the Athletics, John Franklin Baker of some-run fame, is the candidate. He will play against both Herzog and Shaffer in all probability since each is likely to see service before the series is completed. Baker outlived and outplayed Shaffer and Herzog in batting this season, but in Shaffer he will find a harder opponent than Herzog, proved two years ago.

The latter is cool yet lightning fast, making sensational stops and throws which appear easy compared with Baker's rather awkward style. Both Shaffer and Herzog are faster on the base line, but the Athletics star gets on more frequently, due to his heavy hitting. As a run-getter, his season records show that he outclassed both the Giants who will probably figure on the third base position.

DOYLE VS. FLETCHER

The important position of shortstop in the world's series will be filled by Harry for the Athletics and Fletcher for the Giants. Barry outfielded and outlived Fletcher in the clash two years ago, but Fletcher has greatly improved since that time, while Barry has not done more than hold his own.

This season the records of the two

WIN ONE, TIE ONE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—New York won the first game of a double-header with Philadelphia, 13 to 9, while the second game resulted in a 4 to 4 tie, called at the end of the ninth inning. The champions hammered Cincinnati and Pinneran in the first game, while the visitors could do little with the delivery of Tamm.

In the second game McGraw sent in a team of substitutes. Snodgrass played first base during a part of the first game and favored his bad leg. Doyle seemed to have recovered from his injury. Score: First game—R. H. E. Philadelphia..... 9 11 7 New York..... 13 13 1 Batteries—Cuniff and Kilmer; Tamm, Demaree and Wilson.

Second game—

R. H. E. Philadelphia..... 4 9 0 New York..... 4 3 0 Batteries—Meyer and E. Burns; Schnupp, Schuerer and McLean; Hartley, Wilson.

(Called at end of ninth inning; darkness.)

BROOKLYN LOSES TWO.

BOSTON, Oct. 3.—By defeating Brooklyn 3 to 1 and 7 to 6 in today's double-header, Boston clinched its hold on fifth place in the National League standing for the season. Should Brooklyn take the two games scheduled for tomorrow, the last of the season, the local team still would lead the visitors by one game. Score: First game—R. H. E. Brooklyn..... 1 6 0 Boston..... 3 1 0 Batteries—Rucker, Brown and Fischer; Rudolph and Hardin.

Second game—

R. H. E. Brooklyn..... 6 12 2 Boston..... 7 6 3 Batteries—Stearns, Pfeffer and McCarthy; Quinn and Hardin.

INFILDER BREAKS ARM

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 3.—This was an unfortunate day for the Philadelphia Athletics. The weather was too damp and heavy for their pitchers to get a good tuning up for the world's series and Ott, the first substitute infielder, had his right hand broken. Philadelphia won the first game, 13 to 10, and New York the second, called on account of darkness at the end of the sixth inning, 2 to 1.

Ott's injury was received in the second game when he touched out Hartzell who tried to steal third base. Hartzell's spikes were driven into Ott's hand and one of the bones was fractured.

Play pitched three innings and in the second was touched up for three singles.

In the second game Manager Mack put in a brand new team, consisting of youngsters.

First game—Score:

R. H. E. New York..... 10 10 8 Philadelphia..... 13 15 2 Batteries—Caldwell and Sweeney; Plank, Shawkey, Bush and Lapp.

Second game—Score:

R. H. E. New York..... 2 6 0 Philadelphia..... 1 6 0 Batteries—Fisher and Sweeney; Wreckoff and McKeay.

(Called at end of sixth; darkness.)

LEONARD WINS GAME

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—By breaking even in the double header here today Washington clinched second place and Boston fourth in the American league race. The Boston took the first game, 2 to 0, mainly through the airtight pitching of Leonard, who held the locals to two hits.

The second game became a farce before it was half finished. Score, Washington, 11; Boston, 3.

First game—Score:

R. H. E. Boston..... 2 6 0 Washington..... 0 2 2 Batteries—Leonard and Nunamaker; Shaw, Gallia and Henry.

Second game—Score:

R. H. E. Boston..... 3 3 2 Washington..... 11 14 3 Batteries—Moseley, Hooper, Lawless and Thomas; Boehling, Hughes, Dawson, Hedgepeth and Alsmith.

players who had in their respective leagues Fletcher has been batting better than Barry. As a base stealer and scorer of runs, the Giant shortstop has also had the edge on Connie Mack's player. It would appear as though the Giants have an advantage here, and close to an even break at second base.

At the other stations the Athletics are the stronger.

JIMMY CLABBY GETS DRAW AGAINST PETROSKEY

Sailor Receives Severest Beating of His Ring Career

Tried Hurricane Method But Opponent Is Too Quick for Rushes

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—Jimmy Clabby fought rings around Sailor Petroskey tonight and received the only possible decision at the end of twenty rounds. Petroskey weighed 158 pounds and Clabby 161. A count of the rounds gives Clabby all but four and Petroskey one. The twelfth, fourteenth and sixteenth were even, and Petroskey had the thirteenth by a doubtful shade.

In the eighth, a rushing "cat-like" left to Petroskey's jaw made his knees sag and he clinched and hung on until his head cleared. In the eighteenth he took an unbelievable beating and reeled tottering about the ring, but he was never knocked off his feet and when he was most in distress was still dangerous.

(Called at end of ninth; darkness.)

Knowing that only a knockout could win for him, Petroskey did his best to make a hurricane finish, but Clabby's jarring straight left, right uppercuts in the clinches and raking left hooks coming out of them soon took the speed out of the sailor and the round was Clabby's by a wide margin, as had been the nineteenth.

Petroskey fought the best battle and took the worst beating of his career. His dogged aggressiveness and superior weight made him a quantity to reckon with to the last, but he was hopelessly outclassed.

Clabby seemed to be tiring in the twelfth under the rushes and rough clinches of the sailor and began to take his share of punishment from then to the eighteenth. In the sixteenth he did a little better than hold his own and the sailor using his elbow and shoulder on the referee's blind side, rushed in harder and harder in the clinches.

CHALLENGE FOR CUP ACCEPTED BY NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Formal announcement that the Royal Ulster Yacht Club's challenge for a series of races for the America's Cup in 1914 had been accepted was made tonight at the fifth general meeting of the New York Yacht Club, 100 members attending.

Twenty yacht owners present voted to continue the America's Cup committee with power to proceed with all arrangements concerning the defense of the trophy.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Arthur Curtis James, Henry Walters, George F. Baker, Jr., and J. P. Morgan resigned from the committee because they were members of the syndicate which will build a yacht to be a candidate for the defense of the cup.

SAM LANGFORD LOSES FIGHT TO JEANNETTE

Joe Jeannette out pointed Sam Langford in a ten round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight. The two colored heavyweights weighed as follows: Jeannette, 135; Langford, 199½.

Jeannette was in fine condition while his opponent did not appear as well trained. Jeannette out boxed his man in the first three rounds, using a left to the face to good advantage.

In the fourth Langford showed at his best. Heavy rights and lefts to the head rocked Jeannette, forcing him to clinch. Jeannette began to forge ahead again in the next round, but Langford's body blows brought the round to an even break.

Langford's exertions began to tell on him in the sixth round. He tried hard to send his right over to the jaw. Jeannette's clever foot-work enabled him to keep away.

The fight was less rough than the last engagement of the men in this city. In the first round Jeannette slipped to the floor but was up immediately.

17½ MILES

This test thoroughly demonstrates the Fuel Economy of the Hudson Six-Cylinder Car.

Our Thursday morning advertisement through error, stated the Hudson made 12½ miles instead of 17½ miles to the gallon.

This caused much comment, many people who doubted the Hudson performance were sure this was correct and were led to believe this by dealers at the fair grounds who offered to wager STAGE money that the performance could not be duplicated--therefore

DISCOVERY OF OIL IS TO BE COMMEMORATED

Coalinga Is Making Large Plans for Petroleum Carnival Oct. 15

COALINGA, Oct. 3.—The carnival to commemorate the 4th anniversary of the discovery of oil will open Wednesday evening October 15th and will run continuously until Saturday night October 18. It promises to be the grandest fiesta ever attempted in this section of the state. Every one here has taken on the carnival spirit. Committees are being organized to make the festival a day of fun and merriment, and exciting feature attractions to take place during the week. The merchants will decorate their stores and the entire city will don a mass of carnival coloring. Thousands of electric lights will be strung to illuminate the entire city from indications the week will be one continuous round of merriment and a gorgeous time will prevail from start to finish, winding up on Saturday night with the parade of the horrors and the uncrowning of the horrible king.

The queen contest started today and will continue up to the opening of the carnival. Quite a number of popular ladies of the city and field have already been enrolled as candidates, and the contest promises to be quite interesting from the start. The carnival committees have already secured magnificent robes for the queen and her attendants, and the coronation will be most spectacular and impressive, when the mayor turns the keys of the city over to Queen Petrolia. At a signal from the queen the entire carnival will open, then the royal family will parade the city of the amusement places. The following young ladies have already been placed in nomination for queen: Misses Hildreth Murray, Limited; Eleanor Venard, Good Luck; Mrs. Asher Venard, W. K.; Ann Johnson, American Petroleum; Mrs. Reed Bush, R. T. & Co.; 25 Venus Roberts, Vera; Miss Helen Hoyte, Emily Bowen; Clara Mason, Mary Laid, Mrs. Frank Dexter, Mrs. J. W. Tennant, Winnie Mend, Mrs. Chas. Christie, Carrie Kinney, Kate Hefner, Mrs. Dr. Hutchinson, Angeline Tiffany, Maritza Ledyard, Maud Atkinson, Arnetta Cheney. The votes will be cast at a cent each and besides being on sale at several places in Coalinga and on the different leases, several merchants will give votes with purchases. A ballot box will be placed in each of several places and a bulletin board, centrally located, will announce the count from day to day. Dick Hunter, the representative of the Foley-Burke Amusement Company, has been here several days assisting the local committee, and will remain to give his valuable advice to the several committees. With his many years spent in the amusement business, he will be a great asset to the making of the carnival the grand success it promises to be.

SUITS RESULT FROM TROUBLE OVER LAND

D. pute Over Lease No. 1 Huron Causes Arrests; Civil Suit Promised

COALINGA, Oct. 3.—Judge W. R. Odum this morning heard several cases which grew out of a misunderstanding as to the rights to farm a piece of land near Huron. The tract in question is owned by the Southern Pacific company, and is the northeast quarter of section 1-24-16.

Some time prior to the altercation which led up to the cases tried this morning, L. R. Ham and L. S. Miller, living on a farm near Huron, secured a lease to the tract of land from August Estren. T. S. Robinson had a previous lease from the same party, and when they proceeded to occupy the land, trouble arose. It was then agreed that neither should attempt to cultivate until matters could be straightened out. In the interim Mr. Ham, learning that the land belonged to the Southern Pacific, secured a lease from that corporation, and without notification to Robinson proceeded to farm the land. This was on September 29, Robinson, following the lease agreement, broke his agreement with him, went over from an adjoining lease on which he and his brother were working, and opened the attack on Ham with his fists. The testimony disclosed that no words had been spoken as a prelude to the fight, but when Robinson struck Ham, L. S. Miller, who was also on the land, came to the rescue, fire-arms and shovels playing a prominent part in the encounter. Following this warrants were issued, and all were brought into court. The case against Ham was dismissed after a brief hearing, but when Robinson's office, represented the people, and Henry S. Richmond appeared for Ham and Miller.

Other buildings which took fire were at the yard of the Valley Lumber Company, and the City stables. A woodshed at the yard of Jerry Sobrath also caught fire from burning shingles, which were carried high in the air by the breeze, and grass fires occurred at points as far distant as a half mile.

Selma's fine new auto chemical engine was badly blistered when it rolled down in the sand close to the burning plant, when the department made its first run to the scene. WEEKLY REVIEW OF
TRADE CONDITIONS

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Dun's review will say tomorrow Business in most departments continues to make satisfactory progress, one feature being the increasing disposition of merchants in numerous lines and widely separated parts of the country to anticipate future requirements.

Some uncertainty has been expressed as to conditions in parts of the South where the cotton crop is reported to have been adversely affected, but the high prices at which the staple is now selling have evidently removed apprehensions. Similar conditions prevail in districts where crops suffered from drought.

In the East, where commercial and industrial operations have been retarded by tariff uncertainty, the final settlement has encouraged merchants and manufacturers and operations are on a steadily broadening scale.

Failures this week numbered 254 against 302 last year, and 53 in Canada compared with 27 a year ago.

Bradstreet's will say tomorrow: Improved collections, easier money and enlarged distributive trade are pre-eminent features in this week's review. Wearing apparel reflects most activity, and returns indicate that requests for prompt shipment mean growing business.

Business failures for the week were 254, which compares with 302 in 1912.

Wheat, including flour, exports from the United States and Canada for the week aggregate 2,371,531 bushels against 2,150,130 last year.

February 1, 1917, and the first dated January 4, 1912.

Katherine Haglund, Balboa's
Little Sweetheart; Is She
Prettiest California ChildBALBOA'S LITTLE SWEETHEART
KATHERINE HAGLUND

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—Is 3-year-old Katherine Haglund the prettiest child in all California? A lot of people say she is—and of course lots besides will disagree. At any rate, she is Balboa's little sweetheart, for she has been chosen the mascot of the Portola Festival, to be given in San Francisco October 22-25. In the Portola Festival, the Pacific Coast will celebrate the 400th anniversary of the discovery of the Pacific Ocean by Balboa.

Riding in a golden shell, with two little Spanish girls at her feet as maids of honor, little Katherine will head the first parade to be given during the celebration—the military parade of October 22. As the festival mascot she will carry the golden key of the city from Mayor Rolph to the Queen of the festival. At Union Square she will be lifted from her float by a snigger and a sailor, and, upon their shoulders, will present the key to the Queen.

Katherine Haglund's dainty charm has aroused enthusiasm, among others, of Douglas Tilden, the sculptor. The little girl's father, E. T. Haglund, today announced that Tilden is to make a statue of her for the Pan-American International Exposition.

"I'm just so glad that I'm to be Balboa's sweetheart," she said today. "I want to be the mascot of the festival." The indications are that it will.

ENGLISH RATE OF EXCHANGE INCREASED

Heavy Demands On — From Egypt Lessen
British Reserve

LONDON, Oct. 2.—After a prolonged discussion the directors of the bank today decided to raise the bank rate from 4 1/2 to 5 per cent, as a precautionary measure to protect the bank's reserve, which had been depleted by over $10,000,000 this week by exports to Egypt. The weekly commitments of gold from South Africa have been absorbed by the bank, and the discount market hardly expected the advance today. In view of the former New York exchange, but it was recognized that some protective measure would be necessary in the near future in order to enable the bank of England to get its reserves up to the point where it could build up its reserve, which has fallen much below that of last year. The higher rate, it is expected, will serve as a warning to other quarters to check their prospective gold demands.

BORAX SMITH LITIGATION.
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 2.—The affairs of F. M. Smith, the borax magnate, in connection with his holdings in the $200,000,000 United Properties Company again were reviewed today in a notice filed in the United States District Court on a motion to be made Saturday for the appointment of a referee to pass on his creditors' claims in the bankruptcy proceedings brought against Smith by the Hanford-Tavis interests. An affidavit by Smith was filed with the notice of the motion, in which he claims that 90 per cent of his creditors were co-operating with the bankruptcy committee which had taken over his affairs. Smith also claimed his resources were several millions of dollars in excess of his liabilities.

BARBERS WILL MEET IN FRESNO NEXT MONDAY

L. Keller and S. L. Arnold
Elected Delegates to Convention

To Discuss Sunday Closing and Organization; Postpone Union Meeting

The annual convention of the State Federation of Journeymen Barbers of California will be held in Fresno next Monday. L. Keller and S. L. Arnold have been elected delegates from the Barbers' Union of Fresno and are now making arrangements for the meeting. The regular meeting of the union hall has been secured for the reception of sixty-six delegates. The convention will be held at the same time as the State Federation of Labor convention.

President A. H. Smer of Los Angeles will call the meeting to order at 10 o'clock Monday morning. The session will continue throughout the day and far into the night, according to Keller. As the organization has some very important matters to consider before adjourning, the regular meeting of the Barbers' Union Monday night has been postponed.

Although the convention will be held at the same time as the State Federation of Labor convention, the delegates will represent their local unions. The delegates from the Barbers' Union will pass upon the credentials of the delegates.

The annual banquet of the organization will be held Tuesday evening, the time and place to be announced later. All employers are invited to attend the banquet.

Aside from the election and general reorganization, the barbers will consider a movement for state-wide co-operation in the fight for the Sunday closing law. It was the barbers who started the movement for Sunday closing and at their instigation the last Sunday Rest Law was passed before the legislature.

Thorough organization throughout the state will also be taken up at the meeting. At present there are a great number of towns which are in no manner organized. A greater number of the foreign owners have refused to come into the union and steps are to be taken to force them to at least obey a Sunday closing law.

This meeting is probably the last which will be held in connection with the State Federation of Labor convention, as the experiment, tried for the first time at San Diego last year, has not proved a success.

MINE GUARDS CAN NOT CARRY ARMS

CALUMET, Mich., Oct. 3.—Mine guards and other employees of the Amvick Mining company, a subsidiary of the Calumet and Hecla, in the Keweenaw Copper strike district, may no longer carry concealed weapons. The highest court in the state has ruled against the company's policy of giving rights to the company was revoked today. Sheriff John Hepler and Prosecuting Attorney Hamilton, who revoked the license, said the mine guards have been responsible for the shooting in the district. Although the mine guards were not shot at, they were told that General Abbey had complete control of the situation.

At the Quincy mine near Hancock four strikers were arrested for alleged intimidation.

What Ten Dollars Did

Danville, Va.—"I have only spent ten dollars on your medicine and I feel so much better than I did when the doctor was treating me. I don't suffer any hearing down pains at all now and I sleep well. I cannot say enough for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills as they have done so much for me. I am enjoying good health now and owe it all to your remedies. YELLOW PERIL, YELLOW PRESS, SAYS AMERICAN MISSIONARY TO JAPAN; "NO FACTS TO WARRANT ANY ILL-FEELING"

That the Yellow Peril of today is the yellow press, and that in the interests of international understanding and good will the people of a country should see to it that only responsible news is published, is the contention of Sidney L. Gulick, D. D., for twenty six years a missionary in Japan, who was in Fresno yesterday.

The agitation between California and Japan over alien land ownership is attributed by Dr. Gulick to the gross exaggeration of the true status of the question both in this country and in Japan. The missionary has just returned from Japan that "typical Japanese village" where he maintains his round affairs not in the least as represented by Americans.

"I am greatly interested in the Japanese problem in California from the standpoint of my life in Japan," asserted Dr. Gulick, who is a professor of theology at Doshisha University at Kyoto, Japan, and a lecturer at the Imperial University, continuing, "My acquaintance in Japan extends to all classes, from the farmer to the university professor and I can readily see that in the strained relationships between this country and Japan there is a need of better mutual understanding on both sides of the Pacific."

"It seems that Californians fail to understand the world situation that is coming into existence with the rise of a new order. The new order is growing by democratic and constitutional and Japan is becoming widely educated in modern science and is acquiring a cosmopolitan outlook. Within the last decade—since the Russo-Japanese war—the power of the middle class in control of the policy of the government is gradually increasing. There is now to be seen a great settling of the trial interests of the nation."

A very interesting fact in this relationship is the rise of an anti-imperial spirit of which America has as yet had practically no knowledge.

"I found Japanese on this coast far more Americanized as I see them in their homes and talk with them, than I supposed from the criticisms passed on them by many Californians. In Florida, two days ago, I was astonished to find how utterly the situation is being misunderstood by all the good people of the state."

HOD CARRIER FALLS FROM FOURTH FLOOR

Hoist On Holland Building Drops; Engineer Is Blamed, Discharged

Losing his balance when the hoist on which he was standing was suddenly shot downward, H. Lopez, a hod carrier at the Holland & Holland building on Fresno street, plunged head-first from the fourth story and was fatally injured. He was rushed to the emergency hospital and later moved to the main hospital where he might have been expected to live.

William Knutson, the engineer who started the hoist on its downward trip, was held responsible for the serious accident by William Knutson, the superintendent of construction, and was immediately discharged from service. Knutson declared after the accident that Lopez was incompetent and was only hired to avoid trouble with the local unions.

According to the story of an eye witness to the accident the hoist had been raised to the fourth floor where Lopez was at work. He stepped onto the hoist to remove the wheelbarrow of bricks when the hoist was dropped by the engineer. Lopez in falling struck on his head and shoulders. He sustained a concussion of the brain, fracture of three ribs, one puncturing his lung, fracture of the collar bone, head severe bruises about the body. Lopez was treated at the emergency hospital by Dr. Savage and was later placed under the care of Dr. Floyd Burks.

According to Knutson he had a union cement worker running the hoist, and he was not a member of the engineers' union. Knutson says he was called upon by a representative of the Builders' Trades council and asked to employ a union worker. He complied with the order rather than have trouble with the unions, although he alleges the man he employed was not as good an engineer as the man he had at work.

Last night it was learned that the discharged engineer claimed he had received a signal to lower the hoist.

SPENT $1000 IN VAIN, THEN RESINOL CURED HIS ECZEMA

New York: "I became afflicted with eczema twenty-five years ago. I did everything for it, but the itching and burning was so intense and continual that in 1893 I put myself in the care of a specialist. The result was of little or no benefit."

Specialist Said to Use Resinol

"About 1898 I called on the doctor to ask him if he yet knew of anything to cure me. He said, 'Get a box of Resinol Ointment.' I got it. The itching stopped as if by magic. By the time the jar of Resinol was all used the eczema was perfectly cured. I expended perhaps a thousand dollars, and endured real suffering for many years, and at last was relieved and cured in a month for the sum of fifty cents, the price of one jar of Resinol." (Signed) Franklin Hart, late Capt. U. S. Army, 81 Fulton St.

Better proof, even than such a letter, is the fact that Resinol itself and how quickly the itching stops and stubborn skin or scalp eruptions disappear. Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. For free trial, write to Dept. 13-K, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

PLAYGROUNDS NEED $4500 CITY FUNDS, IS ESTIMATE TRY TO REMEMBER THE NAME," SAYS CLERK

Commission Will Not Use Dickey Bequest Money for Equipping

Present Efforts Will Be to Improve Central and Athletic Blocks

At the first meeting of the Playgrounds Commission last night it was decided to appear in a body before the city trustees Monday evening and ask for an appropriation of $4500 for immediately planned work.

Chairman Epstein said that unless this allowance is granted the commission will be unable to do any practical work.

The commission resolved to center its efforts for the present on Central and Athletic grounds, and will ask for an allowance of $2500 for a superintendent and a ground keeper, besides $1000 to be expended on Central, $500 on Athletic and $500 on the other four playgrounds; these expenditures covering essentials for the immediate use of the grounds.

The resolution of the commission was that no playground should be thoroughly equipped until provision has first been made for a superintendent and the preservation of the property. Central playground and the Athletic ground of five acres to be the first to be equipped. The subject of apparatus was not considered, being dependent largely upon what the superintendent shall suggest.

The $1000 Dickey bequest being sufficient to equip all grounds in time with apparatus.

One suggestion—that was favorably acted upon was that in the Central playground a wading pool for small children be installed specially dedicated as a memorial to the late W. J. Dickey. Chairman Epstein suggested that all the play grounds be more appropriately named and that the Central ground, which being in the center of town in the most populous district, be named for Mr. Dickey.

The play ground donated by Mrs. Julia Pink Smith located near the parental school will probably be cared for by the inmates of the institution for children and under the supervision of the city.

There was also at the meeting considerable discussion as to the relative meaning of the words "equipment" and "apparatus" in construing the Dickey bequest for the purchase of apparatus, but the members adopted the suggestion of J. C. Anderson that they should not subject themselves to the criticism of the public by using the bequest money for equipment purposes apart from the actual purchase of apparatus.

Chairman Epstein said in this connection that he had been called upon by Attorney M. B. Harris, attorney for the estate, and who drew up the will, and was informed by him that if Mr. Dickey were alive he would gladly direct that his money be used for equipment of the playgrounds to make the apparatus available.

Epstein and Mr. Eastman were appointed a committee to prepare a resolution as a permanent record of the commission giving credit to the committee that had preceded it in initiating the playgrounds movement, this record to perpetuate the names of all who had participated in the movement.

The commission will ask the trustees to undertake the closing of the alley which bisects the Central playground.

The committee on rules and regulations will meet next Wednesday evening at the Y. W. C. A., the committee consisting of Chairman Epstein, Secretary Miss Glueck and P. M. Lane. The commission will meet next at the call of the chairman.

PANAMA CANAL NOT DAMAGED BY SMOKE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Official insurance of the complete immunity of the Panama canal from damage by Wednesday's earthquake, came to its culmination here today in the following cablegram from Colonel Goethals:

"Earthquake caused no damage to any canal structures nor did it create or increase any old slides. The reference to slides is understood to arise from the report of a large movement of earth into Culabra cut, at Cuchiarra, which almost filled the canal prism at that point. This movement, however, has been in progress for some time and doubtless was facilitated by the old slides. The canal was not damaged by the earthquake. The purpose of admitting the water into the cut in advance of the blowing up of the dyke about October 10, was to add to the efficiency of the dynamite charge by the tamping effect of the fifteen feet of water which will be admitted. It is probable that this water has acted as a lubricant and softened the earth at Cuchiarra, thus hastening the sliding action."

TULARE HIGH HOLDS ANNUAL RUGBY RALLY

TULARE, Oct. 3.—The annual football rally and initiation of the freshman class of Tulare high school was held tonight at the high school grounds. More enthusiasm than usual has been displayed in football here this season and this spirit was brought out at the rally tonight.

The sophomore class had charge of the initiation and gave the freshmen through a number of original and unique stunts. The freshmen had gathered a large pile of wood on the baseball grounds and the rally was held around the bonfire which was built with it.

MANY FOOTBALL GAMES FOR TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Football games of a more strenuous character than heretofore mark the opening of October gridiron games in various parts of the United States. Some of the larger Eastern university eleven teams tomorrow will face opponents with record victories at their expense.

The University of Pennsylvania has what appears to be the nearest contest of the day, for in Lafayette the Red and Blue face virtually the same eleven that won by a score of 7 to 3 over the Quakers last autumn.

Overlin College, which defeated Cornell 13 to 0 last season, is not represented by as strong a team this year, while the Illinois eleven has demonstrated that it is slowly regaining its old place in football.

In other respects the schedule of eastern games contains little that is out of the ordinary.

The Army and Navy eleven will start the season on an even footing tomorrow, for the Naval Academy plays the University of Pittsburgh at Annapolis and the Army plays Stevens Institute at West Point.

Among other games tomorrow are: Fordham at Princeton; Carleton at Lehigh; Hamilton at Syracuse; Villanova at Swarthmore; Colby at Dartmouth; Rhode Island State at Brown.

CENTRAL STATES START

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Football battalions of the Central states swing into battle lines tomorrow in a series of conflicts which signalize among other things the opening of the campaign for the conference championship. Chief interest is the first clash of two "big" eleven, Chicago meeting Illinois.

The game will be a leading feature of the ceremonies incident to the dedication of Chicago's new stadium.

Other games scheduled are:

Case vs. Michigan, at Ann Arbor; Kansas vs. Purdue, at Lafayette; Washington vs. Nebraska, at Lincoln; Ohio Wesleyan vs. Ohio State, at Columbus; Iowa Normal vs. Iowa State, at Iowa City; Lake Forest vs. Northwestern, at Evanston; Ohio Northern vs. Notre Dame at Notre Dame; Kentucky State vs. Illinois, at Urbana; Mount Union vs. Western Reserve, at Cleveland; Ames vs. Minnesota at Minneapolis; Drury vs. Missouri, at Columbia; Nebraska Wesleyan vs. South Dakota, at Vermillion; Lawrence vs. Wisconsin, at Madison.

BRUNSWICK THRONE IS STILL IN DISPUTE

BERLIN, Oct. 3.—An utter deadlock apparently existed in the negotiations for placing Prince Ernest August of Cumberland and his bride, Princess Victoria Louise of Prussia, on the throne of Brunswick and Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, in the hope of seeing his only daughter the wife of a reigning sovereign.

This has been brought about by the failure of the Prussian officials to realize early before the betrothal of the young prince and princess the determination of Prince Ernest August and his father, the Duke of Cumberland, never formally to renounce their rights in the Hanoverian succession.

Prince Ernest August declared flatly to Prince August Wilhelm, the Emperor's lawyer son, who was sent to confer with him at Karlsruhe before the betrothal in order to induce him to renounce his rights:

"For me and my family, honor comes first, then love."

Princess Victoria Louise may therefore find herself the wife of a pretender in much the same position as former King Manuel of Portugal.

CONQUERED PRIDE

BY WILL SEAT.

UT, mother, we can't sit here and starve!" cried Harry Dashford impatiently. "I'd rather starve than have it said at Dashford's mill that the miller's son is a beggar!" he retorted, his mother sternly. "Well," and the young man drew a deep breath, "I'll go to the mill and work, but I don't go to work and earn some money somehow."

"I suppose you mean that I'm the root and you're the branch, seeing that we're the only two Dashfords left," remarked Maria Dashford ironically.

"I don't know that I mean anything like that, mother, only it's this way: Of course I understand your feeling in the matter—it would be a come-down after the mill being in the Dashford family for so many generations, for me, the last one of them, to go to work as a common hand—but I'm not fitted for anything else. What do I know—absolutely nothing save how to spend money!"

"If your Uncle David had not speculated and lost his own money as well as ours!" growled Maria, "flying to what was always her last argument when the matter came up for discussion as it did now, daily."

"Well, he did lose it, and the mill passed into other hands and Uncle David has been dead and buried for a year now—and here I am hanging around eating my head off! If you would only consent, mother, to my going into the mill anyway for while until—" He paused and a worried frown creased his brow. Maria was preparing for one of her "bad spells" that invariably ended all unpleasant discussions. She closed her eyes and leaned her head against the back of her chair. Her white hands dropped listlessly into her lap. "Please bring—the aromatic—spirits—" she moaned and gracefully swooned away.

Harry's teeth clenched as he hurried to and fro administering restoratives to his mother and presently he saw her emerge from the fainting spell and languidly sip a glass of port wine—which, incidentally, was not paid for.

"Please don't continue this discussion, my dear," said Maria feebly. "I really don't feel equal to it. I am afraid your poor mother will not long trouble you with her preposterous notions of proper self-respect—after I am gone you may disgrace the name of Dashford to your heart's content—I shall be beyond caring!"

Harry Dashford paused on the wide driveway that led to the iron gates, and looked up at the comfortable white house that he had always known as his home.

It was not a magnificent home, but it was a handsome one and Harry Dashford had never known anything different until a year ago. He had been the petted son of the great mill owner, Harry Dashford, and had been permitted to graduate from college with a higher record for athletics and a general good time than for brilliancy in his studies.

Then had followed two years idling about Europe, dreaming away most of the time in the music centers of Germany, for Mr. Dashford had a strange pride in seeing his only son enjoy the wealth an earlier generation had struggled to accumulate. "Let the boy enjoy himself!" he cried to exasperated friends. "I've made money enough to keep him the rest of his days in idleness if he chooses. The Dashford Mills are built on a solid foundation of hard cash, and if I step out my brother David will run the whole thing and all Harry will have to do will be to draw when I was a youngster, and I want Harry to have his fling," chuckled Dashford. "He won't thank you for it, Dashford," muttered the doctor. Dr. Bell was right. Harry Dashford was recalled from his foreign travels to attend the funeral of his father. After it was all over Harry and his mother departed for Europe, leaving the business in the hands of a dip into the excitement of Wall Street speculation. When Harry and his mother were summoned home by a peremptory telegram from Dr. Bell they discovered that David Dashford was a suicide and that they were penniless. Not only had the Dashford mills been foreclosed by creditors and sold to strangers but even their home was lost through their share of the liabilities. All this ruin had been wrought by David.

They were allowed to remain in their old home for a year at a large rental—which remained unpaid. Dashford credit in the village of Bashford had been unquestioned and Maria strained it to the utmost. She closed her eyes to the fact that black Nick and his wife, Heppy, were working for her unpaid; she even mentioned the fact that she could not keep a second maid to help Heppy. She persisted in living in the same style to which she had been accustomed, and the tradespeople came to believe that Mrs. Dashford had means of her own in reserve.

This morning's interview had terminated as every other one on the same subject had done. Harry looked from the handsome house to the well-kept grounds, winced when he saw the wageless gardener, clenched his fists in his pockets and walked out of the gate. He had sold everything that he owned personally to satisfy urgent creditors and now he had sold his remaining trinkets, a small jeweled scarf-pin, to the city to be sold. With the money obtained from the sale he intended to pay the two servants.

"GOOD FOR YOU!"

his share of the profits. "Under no circumstances could I believe that you are pursuing a safe course with your son," his friend, Dr. Bell, had said gravely. "Haven't the lad any ambitions of his own?" "Full of 'em—wants to help me out in the mill, but I don't want him around! Time enough when I'm gone if he has a taste for the knifing business. I never had a good time

David Dashford, a man of many theories and extraordinarily impractical in business affairs. Balanced by his partner, the dead man, he had managed to pin himself down to conservative business methods. Now that his brother was dead and the widow and son were traveling abroad, David allowed himself full swing in the matter of experimental improvements in the mills as well as at Dr. Bell's gate he hesitated and then swung it inward and went up the path. Across the garden he saw Alice Bell's slender form among her flowers. She saw him, but as his hand went to his cap he found that she had turned away and was absorbed in training a climbing rose. His face turned scarlet. He knew that Alice Bell must despise him for what looked like deliberate idleness and willingness to live upon tradespeople. He longed to set her right, but loyalty to his mother sealed his lips. The worst of it was, he was falling in love with Alice Bell.

Dr. Bell was in his study when the young man was announced and he pushed a box of cigars across the table and sank back into his deep chair. He was a beetle-browed little man with kindly blue eyes and frosted hair. He looked at Harry over his spectacles. "Light up, Harry," he commanded. Harry shook his head resolutely. "Don't tempt me. I've sworn off all that sort of thing until I can pay some of my debts."

"Good for you! Hope it hurts you to do it—make all the better man of you in the end. Not but what you're good enough, lad, as it is, only I wish you'd had a chance!" "Ah—you understand that I want a chance!" Harry muttered quickly. The doctor nodded. "I understand the whole situation. Do you actually want to go to work in the mill, Harry?" "Yes."

"Willing to start in as an operative on one of the machines?" "Anything." "Blake will give you a job of that sort at $2 a day."

"I know it, only mother objects. You know she isn't very well—"

ROMANCE HAS A WAY

BY ELSIE ENDICOTT.

HEN Mr. James Renfrew was flustered with college he bought a little place in the country to further his experiments in horticulture. There are insects and diseases that prey upon fruit trees, fruit vines and bushes, and the finished horticulturist must be able to diagnose the same as a doctor.

Mr. Renfrew's purchases consisted of three acres of land and an old house. The place had been abandoned for years, and the fruit trees on it offered a glorious opportunity for one of his professions. He decided after a careless glance over them that they had at least 13 ailments to be diagnosed and cured.

As for the old house, it couldn't be cured. It was like an old man dying of his years.

Two miles to the west lived farmer Haskell, and he had a daughter named Grace. He was no farmer to break his back at the plow or pitching hay. He was a gentleman farmer, with an office in the city and three hired men looking around the farm.

He farmed from philanthropic motives. He knew that if he didn't farm there would surely be a shortage of turnips among the poor of the world.

Nor was Miss Grace a milkmaid with freckled face and sunburned nose. She didn't feed the hogs, gather the pumpkins nor peel the potatoes. She wasn't a philosopher, and she wasn't farming from philosophical motives.

Half a mile to the east of the Renfew place lived Farmer Halsey. He was a real farmer down to the hony paws that scraped like sand when you shook hands with him. He was farmer for profit, and his one hired man was kept on the jump, and any turnip that went out into the wide world had to be paid for in cash. He also had a daughter named Grace.

If Miss Grace Halsey was of coarser grain than Miss Grace Haskell—if she had generous feet, many freckles and the stride and strength of a man—that was nature's handiwork. She was neither to be blamed nor praised.

The dilapidated Renfrew place had a queer charm for her, and she was often over mousing around. There was a story about that the house was haunted, and Miss Grace wanted to meet the ghost and give him just one crack with her bony fist.

Neither the Haskells nor the Halseys had heard of the sale of the place when Miss Grace Halsey went over there one day and dug up two currant bushes and carried them home.

The next reached the ears of Mr. Renfrew and he had signs of "No Trespassers" posted up. They care no more for "No Trespassers" signs out in the country than inhabitants of the cities care for the signs to "Keep Off the Grass."

With three plain signs staring her in the face, Miss Grace Halsey entered the grounds and dug up a rosebush. A farmer who knew her saw her and called out:

"Hey you! Don't you know that's trespass?"

"Go on!" was the reply. "You can be arrested!"

"Come off!"

"Mighty techy feller, that Renfrew

is, so they say."

"So'm I!"

Three days later, as Miss Grace Haskell rode that way with pony and cart, she saw a flower that she wanted blooming among the weeds. She entered the grounds and picked it, and she also looked in at a broken pane.

As she came out of the gate a farmer who knew her by name and sight came along and called out:

"Didn't see the signs, did you?"

"I did, sir, and do now!" was the independent reply.

"Mebbe you want to be arrested as a trespasser?"

"Maybe I do!"

"Just about three months in the county jail is what that gal needs!" muttered the farmer as he drove on.

It happened that Mr. Renfrew came down two days later to diagnose the ailments of an old pear tree and encountered both of the farmers. They were eager to tell him of both the trespassers and advise that they be made examples of.

"That's what is needed around this neighborhood," urged one.

"If you don't do something they'll be tearing the house down next," added the other.

"But I hate to go to law."

"Course you do, but them gals was mighty sassy. They jest the same as said they didn't care a darn for you and your old signs."

"I might scare one of them."

"That'll skeer the life out of her!"

"I'll take the one who took the bushes."

As to which one it was the farmers differed, and probably honestly. One was sure it was "that Haskell gal" and the other was just as sure it was

"that Halsey gal!"

It was thus that it came about that a warrant was sworn out for Miss Grace Haskell and was served with eminent satisfaction. Ball was given, and the trial set for days ahead.

HE WAS A FARMER FOR PROFIT AND ALSO HAD A DAUGHTER NAMED GRACE.

Mr. Renfrew had graduated with high honors as a horticulturist, and he hadn't learned a thing about law. He was to learn his lesson now. He had hardly drawn a long breath before the father of Miss Grace Haskell began suit against him for $25,000. There were claims of a false charge, false imprisonment, defamation of character, and so on and so on. The 13 different ailments of fruit trees

They might possibly have witnessed two cases of trespass by two Graces, two Susans or two Pollys, but they wouldn't want to swear to it.

And then, to cap the climax, Miss Grace Halsey came upon him as he was making a diagnosis of a dead plum tree and said:

"You can have your old bushes back if you want 'em. They are dead as punk!"

"Then it was you that took them?"

"Nobody else."

"But I have had Miss Haskell arrested!"

"More fool you! She has also had you arrested, and you may not will make it hot for you!"

"I—I think I will call and have a talk with her," said Mr. Renfrew as he gave the old plum tree a kick and felt that he didn't care what disease it died of.

"Better keep away, young man. Her old man is just aching to get his paws on you, and they keep a bad bulldog and a horse hired man that once chased John L. Sullivan three miles."

"But—but—"

"O, don't be a squealer! You are stung and you might as well begin to count on the 25,000. You ought to have known that I took the bushes and had me arrested. Guess you'll have to take soothing syrup to sleep o' nights after this!"

Mr. Renfrew consulted two different lawyers in the city. They said he was against it.

He came back and drove by the Haskell house. The bulldog growled and showed his teeth, and the bad hired man spat on his hands and removed his coat.

Commit suicide? Flee the country?

Ambush the girl as she rode out and assassinate her?

The situation might not have affected a poet so hard, but it upset the horticulturist until, if a man had come along and asked him at what age a sour apple tree begins to grow pumpkins, he could not have told him within ten years.

When all hope deserts one Kate jumps in. One day, when he had worried and stewed and fretted until he could hardly see straight, Mr. Renfrew borrowed a boat and went rowing down the river.

It was not a great big river like the Amazon, but one just big enough to give Kate a fair show. At a certain stretch there were high bluffs and deep water. It was on one of these bluffs that Miss Grace Haskell sat fishing as Mr. Renfrew came gliding down.

They could not see each other for the bushes lining the bank, but an old cow ashore saw the girl and without rhyme or reason made for her. Cows have various emotions, and human beings can't tell what particular one will come uppermost at a particular time.

There were screams and shrieks. There was a charging cow. There was a dodging girl. Then a space of bluff some 40 feet long and 20 feet wide gave way and went down into the river, the girl and the cow with it.

Mr. Renfrew wasn't 50 feet away. He did not hesitate a moment between the price of cows and girls. He got the girl, but in a half-drowned condition. He got her to the house by means of another.

Miss Grace is wearing an engagement ring and the suit was settled out of court.

PLAIN LOGIC

BY WALTER GREGORY.

N case war is declared what is the logical conclusion?" asked the professor of his class.

"That some one is going to get hurt," was the reply.

"And in case of an earthquake?"

"That buildings will be shaken down."

"And in case of love?"

"That matrimony will follow."

"And in case of pinching the tiger's tail at the zoo?"

"On get the bounce."

"Correct, gentlemen. Always reason from logic and you will always be right."

Fred Clinton, a young man of 24, had been using logic for many months when he set out to walk across the country, a distance of 30 miles, for a visit to his old aunt.

He found nothing to reason about until within four miles of his journey's end. Then, as he was passing a farmhouse of the better class, he saw something that halted him.

A young girl was on the roof of the toolhouse mending a leak. Her back was towards him, but he saw that she had three or four shingles and a hammer and nails.

There might have been men folks working in the field, but they were not in sight. There might have been a mother in the house; but, if so, she gave no sign.

"Now, then, here is logic, and here are conclusions," said the wayfarer as he sat down to watch and wait. "A girl on the roof with shingles, hammer and nails means that the roof leaks. It also means that she is taking a risk."

"If she pounds her thumb, which she is almost sure to do, she will yell out 'Darn it!' and roll off the roof."

"If her foot slips she will clutch and claw and scream, but go down just the same."

"No girl will climb up on a roof of a shed if she knows there's a man around. If she sees one after she gets up there she is startled, and in her haste to get down slips, slides and comes down her-plunk."

"Any way you fix it, the logical conclusion is that there is sure to be a fall here. Now, then, the girl is perched about 14 feet from the ground, and the ground is hard. There are nine chances in ten that she breaks a bone. At any rate, she will get a hard jar."

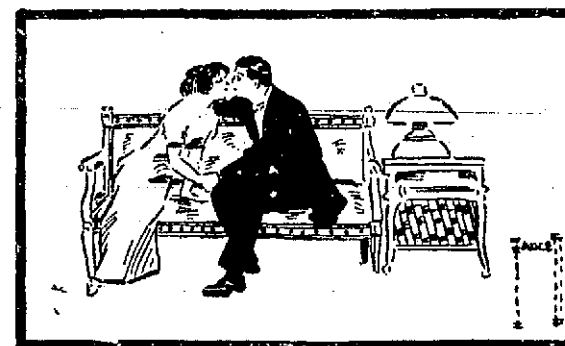

"She will need some one to hold the camphor to her nose and call some one from the field. It may be necessary to telephone or send for a doctor."

"I am at hand. I am the it. It's for me to do and dare. I don't save her life, but she thinks I do, so it's all the same. When a girl thinks she owes her life to a young man what does she do? The logical conclusion is admiration, gratitude, love."

"And when a young man has been called upon to save the life of a starving-looking girl the same emotions are aroused and the same conclusion must prevail. If I go on and she does not see me I won't be at hand when she falls; if I remain I add to her risk. There is no logic here, and there are no conclusions to be drawn. It is a case of even up, and I shall stay."

Five minutes after the young man

"IT'S ONLY LOGICAL THAT I WANT YOU FOR A WIFE."

had finished his soliloquy the girl changed her position to get at her work the better, and there was a scream and she went sliding.

Her fingers dragged over the dry shingles, and when the edge was reached she took a drop.

"Conclusion the first is all right!" said Mr. Clinton as he started on the run to the rescue. "I must tickle the professor by writing him a letter."

He found Miss Amy Logan in a huddle on the ground and insensible. The fall had dislocated her shoulder. Mr. Clinton dashed into the house by the kitchen-door and shouted. No one at home. He ran through three rooms and came to the camphor bot-

"Telephone in the house?"

"Yes."

"I don't know beans about first aid, but something must be done. I think you have a broken arm and I shall telephone the doctor."

"Dr. Arnold—three rings."

In five minutes Mr. Clinton was back again to say:

"Now we must get you into the house and on to the lounge I saw in the sitting room. Careful, now. Put your well arm around me and walk slow."

"But I don't know you!" protested the girl as she hung back.

"That's logical. Since I live miles away and never passed this place before, it follows that you don't know my name is Clinton. Keep jabbing the camphor and brace up against any faintness. Here we are, and now let me get you a drink of water. Is it the arm or the shoulder?"

"Shoulder."

"It's dislocated, but that's a heap better than a broken arm. There's a house a quarter of a mile back. Let me run there while waiting for the doctor and fetch a woman."

"If you would be so kind, but I don't quite understand yet."

"You will wait on. I've got it all figured out. It's a case of logic."

The young man returned accompanied by a farmer's wife, just as the doctor drove up.

"What's up?" asked the M.D.

"Girl got a dislocated shoulder."

"Who telephoned?"

"I did."

"What did you want to swear for?"

"Logic. The man who swears over the telephone wire gives the impression to the receiver that he is very much in earnest, and that he'd better do some hiking."

Mr. Clinton sat on the veranda while the doctor and the woman cared for the patient. By and by the girl's thanks were sent to him, and he was asked to call in a week's time, if he could make it convenient, and he went away whistling and not even posted as to the girl's name.

"But odds is the difference," he said to himself. "It may be Jones or Brown or Baker now, but it's sure to be Clinton after awhile."

When the aunt was told the adventure she replied:

"Why, that's the Logan girl!"

"But why the exclamation?"

"Because they are the nabobs of the country."

"Well!"

"And she turned down several offers of marriage?"

"Well, again?"

"And you are no nabob. Don't be foolish, Fred, and fall in love."

"I'm not a nabob, but I'm a logician, and the logical conclusion is that I shall marry her. Can't beat logic, Aunt."

He managed to hear from someone every day as to Miss Logan's improvement, and when he was told that with her arm in a sling she was walking about the house and the grounds, he drove over to pay his call.

When he had been received in a very friendly spirit and identified himself Miss Logan said:

"Did you tell me that you were passing by as I fell?"

"Not exactly passing by, but sitting down and waiting for the logical conclusions."

"And they came?"

"They did." The girl who mounts a roof to make repairs will not escape a fall one time in fifty."

"How silly of me to get up there! The roof leaked, but the idea of repairing it was a sudden freak. Did your logic tell you what to do after I fell? I've been thinking it over, and I wonder that you got along so well."

"I knew there would be logical conclusions," laughed the young man. "O, I'm very, very thankful."

"That's one conclusion."

"And grateful."

"That's number two."

"And—and I really admire the calm way you managed things."

"That's number three."

"But—but is there any more?"

He said there was, but he would delay the telling of it until some other time.

Several months later he said, "It's only logical that I want you for a wife."

"Then you must look out for your com-

him her hand."

"Logic and its consequences make happiness!" said the professor when he had read the letter.

Accounted For.

"How is it," queried the fair maid, "that at times you develop great masculine energy and at other times display so many womanly traits?"

"I suppose it is due to heredity," replied the young man. "You see, half my ancestors were men and the other half women."

COMMISSION ORDERS PREFERRED STOCK ISSUED HERE

Announcement Is Made At Meeting of Railroad
Stockholders

New Manager of Interurban
Returns; May Recommend
Changes In Curves

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Fresno, Hanford and Sunnyside Lake Railway Company yesterday afternoon, it was announced that the railroad commission had given permission to issue $225,000 of preferred stock to cancel the old bond issue of approximately $250,000 and to pay the outstanding debts of the company, with the remainder of the stock could be used for financing the preliminary construction work. It was also announced that a new 40-year bond issue of $250,000 had been allowed with the bonds drawing interest at 4 per cent, interest on the preferred stock will be 7 per cent and will serve as a second mortgage.

As many of the stockholders were not present at the meeting yesterday afternoon the election of president and a new board of directors was postponed until next Friday afternoon. The election of officers will likely be a formal matter, as it is understood that all of the present board will be re-elected.

Yesterday it was decided to advertise for a meeting of the stockholders in sixty days, at which time the stockholders will be asked to authorize the directors to issue the preferred stock, in the meantime the preliminary work is being cleared up and during the next sixty days the new management of the road will not be idle. The work is necessary according to law, but as there is no doubt that the stockholders will give permission to issue the preferred stock, as this is required by the railroad commission, the directors are going ahead with the work with this understanding, so that there will be no delay after the formal meeting.

L. H. Jones, an engineer, who purchased the interests of F. S. Grainger and is now manager of the project, returned to Fresno yesterday morning with Attorney H. P. Brown and John Somers. Jones is still busy on the engineering part of the work and may recommend a few changes in the curves as laid out two years ago.

A meeting of the directors was held yesterday morning.

"DIPS" ARE STILL AT WORK AT FAIR

Three cases of people being robbed by pickpockets were reported to the sheriff's office yesterday afternoon and last night. One of the victims was a woman, who lost her watch and chain. Another victim was a Mr. Fisher of Reedley, and the other a Fresno resident, Sheriff McSwain and his deputies were at the fair yesterday afternoon and last night, but no arrests were made. The gang of "dips" are supposed to have come to Fresno from the state fair at Sacramento.

MISSIONARY PARTY GUEST OF FRESNO BAPTISTS

Thirteen Missionaries to Orient Met By Autos,
Dined At Church

Addresses On China, Japan and India Made to Large Congregation

A party of thirteen missionaries, bound for work in the Orient, were the guests of local Baptists yesterday, being met at the train by automobiles, escorted about the city, and then to the First Baptist church where they were guests at a supper which was a most palatable affair. At the meeting in the church following the many missionaries addressed a large congregation on features of their work.

Rev. A. W. Rider at Oakland was in charge of the party which left last night for San Francisco. They sail on Tuesday afternoon from the Bay city on the steamship "Tenyo Maru" for the Orient.

Following the supper early in the evening several of the visitors were called upon for brief talks. Pastor J. W. Canby, of the First Baptist church, introduced Rev. Rider, who presided as toastmaster. Those who were called upon were Rev. E. S. Hildreth of Tokyo, Miss, who is on his way to India; Rev. Joseph E. Taylor, who is returning to China, and Miss Mary Jane Thomas, who is bound for the Philippine Islands.

"Missionary Friendship" was the subject assigned to Rev. Newcomb, who spoke of the existing brotherhood existing between the missionaries in the fields. He pointed out that the missionaries feel toward one another as members of a family, and are vitally interested in each other's welfare.

"I don't ask for better people to live with, work with, and die with than the Chinese people," asserted Rev. Taylor, who is on his way to China. "The Chinese," he maintained, "the Chinese," "on the roof of the world" near Tibet were capable of enduring friendships as any people being, saying that men are fundamentally alike the world around. He pointed out that the missionaries respect in China that is paid to old age as compared to the growing disrespect of the young of this country, declaring that old age is the golden age in the life of a man in China because of the reverence with which he is listened to and obeyed.

The conference in the church was opened with a prayer by Rev. Rider, followed by the missionaries.

Miss Mary Jane Thomas was the first speaker to be called upon. She is going to the Philippines, where she will have charge of the laboratory work at the Jaro Industrial school. In speaking of her work, Miss Thomas mentioned that in a training school in Los Angeles today there are six girls preparing for foreign work who will go out next year. Miss Selma Lagergren and Miss Emma Johnson spoke of work in the Philippines, emphasizing the need of primary divisions.

A duet by Mrs. F. H. Connelly and Mrs. R. A. Powell was followed by a talk on Japanese work by Miss Rydberg and Rev. Harry Taylor.

"The Chinese Revolution" was the subject discussed by Rev. Joseph E. Taylor. This revolution, he asserted, was founded on the same principles as that of America's rebellion. He brought out the fact that while the Civil War lasted but four months, this he maintained, was due to the modern humanity in China which saw in the slaughter of one Chinese at the other party a wound in the side of the nation.

Rev. E. S. Hildreth and Miss Mildred S. Scott were called upon for talks on Chinese missions, and Miss Edna J. Taylor treated the needs in India. The difficulties of travel and the three and a half million workers for Christianity were treated by Rev. John Newcomb. Mrs. Newcomb spoke of the families of India, the appreciation for the aid of Christians and the willingness of the natives to work.

Rev. Harold McCart of the First Baptist church of Selma pronounced the benediction.

Those who were present at the meeting were the following: Rev. and Mrs. E. S. Hildreth, bound for South China; Miss Mary Jane Thomas, bound for the Philippines; Rev. and Mrs. John Newcomb, bound for India; Rev. and Mrs. Joseph E. Taylor, bound for China; Miss Gertrude E. Rydberg, bound for Japan; Miss Selma Lagergren, bound for the Philippines; Miss Mildred S. Scott, bound for China; Miss Edna J. Taylor, bound for India; Rev. Henry Taylor, bound for Japan; and Miss E. J. Taylor, bound for Burma. Several others who were originally in the party are now in San Francisco.

PRESIDENT REMOVES JUDGE IN ALASKA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—President Wilson today removed Judge Cornelius D. Murane, United States district judge at Nome, Alaska. Attorney General Clegg recommended the resignation of Judge Murane several weeks ago and the latter refused to resign until next June. This resulted in the president's summary action. It is said at the department of justice that the removal was made for the good of the service. There was a general dissatisfaction, it was declared, but no charges had been filed against the judge. Judge Murane's four year term would have expired in December, 1914.

B. S. Roddy, several days ago, resigned at the request of the attorney general, as United States attorney at Nome.
